Chinese Planes Over Shanghai; Jap Naval Guns Shell Woosung

Attack River Outlet to Cover Landing of Troops

AMERICANS LEAVE

Anti-Aircraft Guns Blaze At Chinese Scouting Planes

Tokio —(AP)— The Domei (Japanese) news agency reported today that Kalgan, controlling an important communication route from Mongolia through the great wall, had been taken by the Japanese.

The report said that at least six, possibly eight, Chinese divisions now were trapped between mechanized Japanese armies at Kalgan and at Nankow pass, to the south.

BY JAMES A. MILLS

Shanghai — (Wednesday)— (AP) — Chinese airplanes swept over international Shanghai early this morning on awe-inspiring reconnaisance flights while Japanese naval guns crashed in prolonged bombardment of Woosung and Shanghai's Yangtze river outlet to the sea to cover the landing of fresh Japanese troops.

The Chinese air force, following the example of their Japanese enemies, scouted the heart of the city after midnight. The planes dropped no bombs, but the roar of their engines threw Shanghai into a new state of fearful tension.

Japanese anti-aircraft guns barked out at them.

Opposing land forces hemming the international areas seemed content to hold their lines while Japan's big guns, planes and landing parties roared in offensive tempo to the north about Woosung, at the confluence of the Whangpoo, Shanghai's harbor, and the Yangtze.

I saw two Japanese airplane carriers anchored near Saddle islands at the mouth of the Yangtze catapult plane after plane into the air to bomb Chinese machinegun positions near the Woosung shore.

In the midst of exploding bombs and artillery shells 212 Americans were evacuated aboard the liner President Pierce for Manila.

The battled raged down the Whangpoo and along the Yangtze. Japanese landed thousands of reinforcements. They were led by suicide detachments of the "white band of death."

The Japanese were driving in from the north to assault the Chinese left flank. Japanese army spokesmen declared reinforcements they landed in the Soosung area yesterday and today already had advanced at different points from one to two miles.

Assumes Command

General Iwane Matsui, former commanding general on the island of Formosa and a former member of the supreme war council, came out of retirement to take command of all Japanese forces in the Shanghai area.

A member of the Japanese staff declared: "Our forces will meet the Chinese troops, regardless of the time and place."

I sailed down the Whangpoo with the American refugees who boarded the President Pierce. For the first time United States officials decided the refugees should be convoyed with a warship.

Against the clear sky, Japanese sea and land planes emblazoned with the rising sun insignia darted over Chinese positions, dropping bombs and slooping down to blast machinegun bullets into the Chinese lines.

After the party of refugees was transferred to the President Pierce, the destroyer uncovered her guns and escorted the liner through the raging battle to the sea.

University Hit

Coming back, I saw four huge shell holes in buildings of the University of Shanghai on the Whangpoo river. The institution is run by American Baptists.

The battle area immediately about international Shanghai was vastly different from yesterday. Because of the Japanese flanking movement, Chinese forces in the Yangtzepoo and Ward road jail

Now Don't Get Mad As a Hatter

Just read that silk plush for high hats is all imported from France. Silk toppers used to be laughed at in the U. So has the pleasing habit of high-hatting, likewise an imported custom, but now thoroughly Americanized. Yet no one high-hats Post-Crescent classified want-ads.

REPORT BABY STOLEN FROM CARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lucas reported to police in Chicago that their 3-month-old daughter Diane, had been stolen from her carriage in the busy Wilson avenue shopping district on the north side of the city. Mrs. Lucas said the baby disappeared while she was inside a store. The grieving parents are shown here with the carriage. (Associated Press Photo)

Baby Taken From Carriage In Busy Chicago Shopping Region; Motive Not Known

Chicago—(AP)—Missing Diane Carol Lucas, three months old, was found alive today at the rear of an apartment house three miles from where the girl was kidnaped in a busy uptown shopping district.

Wrapped in a white blanket, the baby was nestled on a doorstep off an alley. A squad took her immediately to the Rogers park police station.

Mrs. Dorothy Lucas, 22, was summoned to the station and identified her daughter.

Chicago — (AP) — Police officials pressed every available man into the search today for a 3-month-old girl and the abductor who snatched her from a baby carriage in full view of hundreds of shoppers.

The child, Diane Carol, disappeared from the carriage outside a grocery in the north side Wilson avenue district while her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Lucas, 22, was making supper purchases yesterday.

The abductor apparently escaped without arousing the suspicion of anyone in the street crowds. Police were unable to find anyone who had seen the baby taken. Nor did they uncover a plausible motive.

Mrs. Lucas waited nearly an hour before notifying police. She said she thought her husband, Herman, 31, had taken the baby as a joke during her 10-minute absence and would soon return. Police found the father at home, unaware of the abduction.

Mother Collapses

The distraught mother collapsed when she realized the child was gone. The baby was still being nursed by Mrs. Lucas, who described her as having brown eyes and brown hair, an olive skin, weighing 13 pounds and wearing a white dress and pink knitted shoes.

Investigators expressed doubt the infant was taken for ransom. They said the parents were in moderate circumstances. Lucas is a carpet layer and repairman.

Police Sergeant Michael Ahern advanced the theory the girl was taken by a childless couple or by some mother who recently had lost a child.

Mrs. Lucas suggested another theory when she told police a former woman friend of her husband had tried to break up their romance before their marriage Aug. 8, 1935. She said the woman lives in New York but recently had been in Chicago. She was sought for questioning.

Mrs. Lucas said she had received no threats against the infant. There were no notes in the carriage, which was covered with mosquito netting when the mother last saw the child. The netting had been pushed back when Mrs. Lucas returned.

The mother came to Chicago from her Lafayette, Ind., home four years ago. The baby was born last May 25.

Farmer Involved In Accident Near Chilton Is Dead

Calumet County Officials Plan No Inquest in Frank Schwobe Death

Frank Schwobe, 31, town of Stockbridge farmer, died this morning at St. Agnes hospital in Fond du Lac from injuries suffered at noon Monday when his car turned over on County Highway F about 2½ miles west of Chilton. There were no witnesses to the accident.

John Koller of Chilton saw the car and body shortly afterward and summoned a doctor. Schwobe was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance. Marks on the highway showed the car skidded on the tarvia surface before leaving the road, going over a stone fence and turning over in the adjoining field.

Mr. Schwobe suffered concussion of the brain, a fractured nose and bruises about the head and face. It is thought that the brakes of the car may have locked, causing the accident. Sheriff Gerhard Jensen stated that there would be no inquest.

Schwobe is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Swobe; four brothers, Glenn Roy, Henry, and Anton of Chilton and Joe of route 2, Hilbert; four sisters, Mrs. Frank Witburn, Chilton, Mrs. Albert Thompson, route 2, Chilton, Mrs. Otto Wright, route 1, Chilton and Mrs. Norbert Tillman, route 3, Chilton.

Women, Children Join Picket Lines

Union Leaders in Pittsburgh District Fear Renewal of Rioting

Pittsburgh — (AP) — Women and children joined their men folks on the picket lines at the strike-bound Heppenstall Steel company today as union leaders expressed fear of a renewal of yesterday's riots in which 11 were injured.

William Hart, head of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee local, massed 700 pickets at the plant, asserting he had received "a tip" that non-strikers would again rush the gates, padlocked by strikers.

Approximately 50 pickets were on duty yesterday as four carloads of non-strikers led by C. W. Heppenstall, Jr., company vice president, attempted to break the lines and open the gates.

Heppenstall said that he had wished to enter the plant "on an inspection trip." Recently he asked pickets to permit him to remove some machinery from the plant but they refused.

Two members of the Heppenstall family, S. B. and Max Heppenstall, were treated at a hospital for minor cuts received in the fighting. They were registered as Mr. Black and Mr. Whitman.

Five strikers, an equal number of non-strikers and a policeman at Lawrenceville where the plant is located, were battered in the hand-to-hand fighting with bricks, clubs, bottles and fists. All were treated at a hospital, but none was reported seriously hurt.

Leaders Confer With Roosevelt On Extra Term

Added Session May Mean Party Dissension, Democrats Fear

STRATEGY INVOLVED

Farm Control Legislation Remains in Foreground at Capital

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt called in his leaders in congress for luncheon today for what officials said was a conference on calling a special autumn session of congress.

Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) and Representative Rayburn (D-Texas), Democratic leaders in senate and house, were invited to the White House midday meal.

Another presidential engagement during the day probably connected with the proposed extraordinary meeting of congress was with chairman Jones (D-Texas) of the house agriculture committee. Farm control legislation is the first order of business at the next session, special or regular.

The president's conference with capitol leaders, who remained past last Saturday's adjournment, occurred amid expressions of strong opposition to the early return of congress from within the Democratic party. These opponents speculated that such a session might increase party dissension.

"No Proctical Good"

One leader who preferred not to be mentioned by name said "no practical good and maybe some harm" would come from a special session on farm and wage-hour legislation. He said he and others of the same view would so advise President Roosevelt before leaving the capital.

He argued time was needed to allow heated tempers to cool and that it would be poor policy for the president to run the risk of reopening party strife in October or November.

Many members, he said, might feel none too kindly toward the administration and its legislative program if they were summoned back to Washington while in the midst of building political fences for next year's election.

Wouldn't Shorten Session

To the contention that action on a farm bill and a wage-hour measure in the fall would permit shortening the regular January ses-

Quakes Will Not Force Islanders to Evacuate

Manila—(AP)—The 6,000 inhabitants of Alabat island terrified by more than 30 separate earthquake shocks, will not have to be evacuated, two official inspectors reported today after finding that first reports of the damage were exaggerated.

Governor Maximo Rodriguez of Tayabas province and Father Miguel Selga, seismologist and director of the weather bureau at Manila, said they found most houses tenable, tremors infrequent and lessening in intensity. The residents were terrified, but Father Selga dissuaded them from evacuating the island.

Thirty-seven persons were injured. Damage was estimated at $7,000,000.

Legless Man Starts on 155-Mile Non-Stop Swim

Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—Charles Zimmy, 46-year-old legless swimmer, was somewhere along the Hudson river today in an attempt to swim non-stop to New York city.

Zimmy, claimant of several long distance and endurance swimming records, took to the chilly waters last night on the 155-mile trip he said would take nearly a week. He said he would not leave the water until he reached the George Washington bridge.

Accompanying Zimmy on his trip is the 40-foot motor cruiser.

The crew of six includes cook Joe McCarthy, who will provide food as desired passing it to Zimmy as he swims alongside.

Zimmy said he plans to sleep during the daytime, an hour at a time, floating on his back.

Says Spanish Loyalists Enlist Men in Milwaukee

Milwaukee —(AP)— Police today checked the story told them by Stephen Petek, 22, who charged that Spanish loyalist sympathizers are enlisting recruits for the loyalist army here and suggesting a fraudulent passport scheme to smuggle them into Spain.

M. B. Ross, federal immigration inspector, said Petek told him he was one of the recruits and said a score of men had been recruited here.

6 Dead as Big Flying Craft Falls Into Bay

Two Members of Naval Crew Escape With Minor Injuries

SEARCH FOR BODIES

Huge Seaplane Crashes Into Abandoned Whaling Ship

San Diego, Calif.— (AP)— Disaster struck the navy's armada of giant flying boats for the first time last night, killing six of eight men aboard a new $150,000 craft as it crashed into shallow San Diego bay.

Two crew members escaped with minor injuries but three officers and three crew members were killed and the plane was almost demolished by the impact. Four bodies had not been recovered early today.

Its hull submerged, the wreck was quickly surrounded by navy and private ships as giant searchlights illuminated the bay.

The dead were listed as: W. C. Dey, Jr., lieutenant junior grade; F. L. Wallace, lieutenant junior grade; W. M. Freshour; R. Fall, aviation chief machinist's mate; R. M. Purdy, radioman, second class, and H. X. Bryan, radioman, third class, naval aviation pilot.

Survivors In Hospital

Two survivors lifted out of the hull and rushed to Naval hospital were J. W. Blackman, aviation ordnaceman, second class, only slightly hurt, and T. P. Dougherty, aviation machinist's mate, third class, who suffered shock and multiple lacerations.

The ill-starred plane, PBY-1, whose sister flying boats have flown in mass formation to Honolulu and the Canal Zone in the past two years, was undergoing a "routine night practice flight" for a forthcoming hop to Panama in September.

As it swooped down for a landing after being in the air several hours, the seaplane struck the Narwhal, an abandoned whaling ship once used in filming "Moby Dick."

The 63½-foot hull of the flying boat nosed over in the bay mud, crushing its metal framework like paper.

Lightning Blamed for Forest Fire Disaster

Cody, Wyo.—(AP)—Supervisor John Seiker, of the Shoshone National forest, said today lightning, striking a remote pine-filled canyon, "unmistakably" caused the savage forest blaze that took the lives of 14 firefighters.

Seiker reported 500 weary and smoke-choked men on the fire line now had the blaze under complete control. He estimated the flames had swept over 2,000 acres in the Absaroka mountains.

"Lightning is the only possible thing that could have started a fire in there," Seiker declared.

"There is no human habitation within seven or eight miles of the canyon entrance," he said.

The fourteenth victim of the fire died last night in a Cody hospital.

Illinois Dairy Farm Is Neatest in 'Chicagoland'

Chicago —(AP)— Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Kane, Mundelien, Ill., planned a week's vacation trip to Yellowstone National Park today, their prize for winning the fourth annual neatest dairy farm contest sponsored by the pure milk association.

Their new home farm on a 140-acre tract south of Mundelein was selected as "Chicagoland's neatest" in competition with 300 other dairy farms in Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana.

The Kanes have been operating a dairy farm 21 years.

The new home was selected from 16 farms that had won gold medals qualifying them to compete for the grand championship. The medals were awarded to the farms receiving the highest rating in each of the 15 districts in the Chicago milk shed, comprising 33 counties in northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and northern Indiana.

Thousands Will Flock to Appleton for Dollar Day

The moon shone like a silver dollar last night and was remindful of the fact that a dollar in one of 60 leading retail stores Thursday will purchase many an article heretofore as far distant as the moon.

Dollar day, sponsored by the retail division of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, comes but once in a while and veteran Dollar day shoppers have already canceled bridge and golf dates in favor of full day of shopping Thursday.

The balance of summer stock will be priced at record lows and new fall merchandise will be tagged with attractive prices. Shoppers get a break this year because the annual summer event is scheduled later than usual and both summer and fall articles will be on display.

A special edition of the Appleton Post-Crescent was distributed in the rural area today and will be circulated in Appleton Wednesday in order that all readers will have ample time to make out their shopping lists.

Many merchants have ordered special consignments in an effort to present unprecedented values and extra help has been hired in anticipation of the thousands of persons expected to jam the downtown business section. Dollar day stores will be designated by banners.

Various persons have remarked that Christmas is not a long ways off and the city-wide sales event is an opportune time to purchase a coffee pot for Aunt Matilda or socks for Uncle Henry. With fall weddings in full swing, gifts of worth may be purchased at nominal prices.

Lewis' Lieutenant Tries To End Factionalism in Ranks of Auto Workers

Federation Heads Carry Fight Into Political Field

Green Told to Find Out Whether Lewis Is Using Non-Partisan League

Atlantic City, N. J.—(AP)—Recent talk of a John L. Lewis labor party for the 1940 campaign led American Federation of Labor leaders today to extend their anti-Lewis battle to the political field.

The federation's executive council ordered President William Green to find out whether Lewis had converted labor's non-partisan league into the CIO political agency, as reports from Washington said he intended to do.

In a talk with newspaper men, Green plainly indicated he felt Lewis had done just that. He further indicated that if his inquiry bore out his belief, the federation would ask all loyal members to get out of the league.

Green said he was "inclined to believe" the stories that Lewis an Sidney Hillman and other CIO leaders intended to place a labor candidate in the 1940 presidential race. He recalled that for months he had said that CIO leaders had political ambitions.

Laughs at Reports

Daniel J. Tobin, outspoken Irish president of the truck drivers' union and chairman of the Democratic national committee's labor division, on the other hand scoffed at the third party talk.

John Lewis, he siad, "has too much sense not to know what has happened to all third parties in our country for the past 40 years," and "will not make the mistake of starting" one.

Nevertheless, Tobin issued an 800-word statement counselling labor to support the Democrats and stating that the organization of a labor party would be a great mistake.

Labor's non-partisan league, which drew the council's attention, was organized to "put labor on the record for Roosevelt" during the 1936 campaign.

Lewis, Hillman and George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen's union, were the organizers. They were motivated by the A. F. of L.'s traditional refusal to endorse either the Republican or Democratic nominee.

Franco Sees Early Fall of Santander

Fascist Leader Claims Fighting in Province 'Virtually Ended'

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier —(AP)— Continued advances by five converging columns of insurgent troops today made it "apparent," said General Francisco Franco, that "fighting in Santander province is virtually ended."

The insurgent chieftain's Salamanca headquarters predicted in a statement that the rate of his army's advance would permit capture of the provincial capital, Santander, "before the end of the week."

Government reports, admitting in part the insurgent claims, reported fierce infantry attacks supported by fleets of tanks and large masses of artillery and aviation on the tightening semi-circle centered on the Spanish government's last important Biscayan seaport.

Los Corrrales, southwest of the beleaguered city, was heavily shelled by Franco's Palencia road column, the government communique said.

Franco was driving that spearhead toward Torrelavega, seven miles north of Los Corrrales, in an effort quickly to isolate Santander from Gijon, a considerably less important government stronghold on the bay of Biscay about 90 miles to the west. Government troops, the Madrid communique asserted, were resisting stiffly.

Torrelavega heavily fortified for a last ditch battle by the government army of Basques, Asturians and Santander militiamen, lies only 11 miles from Santander. Insurgent advices insisted Franco's men were but three miles from Torrelavega.

German Flying Boat in Takeoff for New York

Travemuende, Germany—(AP)—The flying boat Nordwind left today on the first leg of a flight to New York by way of Lisbon and the Azores. Pilots Hans Vonengel and Walter Diele were at the controls when the ship took off at 7:30 a. m. (11:30 a. m. C. S. T.) Vonengel has flown the Atlantic 22 times and Diele 13.

REFUSES TO TESTIFY

Miss Lucille Buehler (above), 22, was held under bond at Chicago after she had refused to testify at an inquest into the death of Robert F. Burns, Evanston merchant who was slain while strolling with her in the moonlight of a lakefront park. Miss Buehler, who also said her name was Grace Snyder and Mrs. Thompson, said Burns was shot by one of two gunmen who accosted him.

Propose Grading For Disposition Of Potato Crop

Market Plan for Big Harvest Discussed at State Hearing at Waupaca

Waupaca—Marketing of the crop of 402,000,000 bushels of potatoes now maturing in the country through a plan of the United States Department of Agriculture for a profitable sale of the large crop was explained by federal and state representatives before a crowd that jammed the Waupaca county courthouse this morning.

After the potato growers, buyers and handlers had been given an explanation of the federal department's plan they were invited to present their views. Some of the growers and buyers favored the plan, while others believed in a modified form of it.

It was pointed out by the federal and state department representatives that Wisconsin has 24,000,000 bushels of potatoes that will be ready soon for a market that has declined steadily since spring. Producers and shippers are worried over the marketing outlook and statisticians say that Wisconsin's estimated production of 24,700,000 bushels will be 4,610,000 bushels larger than last year and 389,000 bushels above the average of a 5-year period from 1928 to 1932.

Big Increase In Crop

The same conditions exist, officials said, in other potato producing states, principally Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming and Idaho. The increase over last year for the nation has been estimated at 72,000,000 bushels.

Lawrence Myers, chief of marketing, A. L. Mercher, potato expert, and D. R. Hegay, all of the United States Department of Agriculture, and Albert Compton, a federal crop inspector, discussed the marketing

Won't Reveal Names of Government Witnesses

Madison — (AP) — Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone refused today to give defense attorneys the names of government witnesses in the oil conspiracy trial scheduled to begin Oct. 4.

Attorney H. H. Thomas requested the list to check on the character and reliability of the witnesses. Judge Stone said he might have to wait until after subpoenas have been served.

More than a score major oil companies were indicted several months ago on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

Pleads for 'Firm Foundation Upon Which To Set U. A. W.'

SPLIT THREATENED

'Unity' Group Ready to Compromise With 'Progressives'

Milwaukee—(AP)—An open clash between rival United Automobile Workers of America factions on the floor of their convention turned into a love feast, for the moment at least, as the day's first session ended.

A fight over seating of a group of Michigan delegates, which appeared to be sending the convention headlong into a test of factional strength suddenly dissolved into mutual agreement when President Homer Martin suggested that the credentials committee retire and consider the cases further.

Milwaukee—(AP)—John L. Lewis, acting through one of his United Mine Workers lieutenants, publicly attempted today to calm the storm of factionalism which has split the ranks of the United Automobile Workers of America.

Ora Gassaway of the mine workers and a representative of Lewis, president of the CIO, made the attempt at today's session of the U. A. W.'s national convention.

He addressed the delegates at a time when supporters of Homer Martin, U. A. W. president, were shouting defiance at a "unity" faction which would diverst Martin of power and distribute it among the president and four equally ranking vice presidents.

Wyndham Mortimer, vice president not on the Martin slate for reelection, said earlier in the day that the unity group which he heads was willing to compromise with Martin's "progressive" faction. A source close to the president received this announcement with:

"There will be no compromise."

Asks "Firm Foundation"

"I plead with you," Gassaway told the delegates, "before we get into a free-for-all fight among ourselves to let each and every one of us have one thing in our hearts, and that is —a wish to build a firm foundation upon which to set the U. A. W."

Gassaway said the mine workers do not desire to take part in any factionalism, nor to impede the progress or organization, and added:

"Therefore, Lewis thought that I could be of some assistance to your organization and asked me to come before the convention.

"You have nothing to fear in following the good advice of John Lewis, who has what it takes to lead the working man out of chaos."

Pleads for Harmony

Urging the delegates to forget their union political differences, Gassaway said:

"Representatives of General Motors corporation are on hand here today to see how wide is the breach."

Although he mentioned none of the factional leaders, many delegates inferred Gassaway referred to the unity chieftains when he said of the cry for democracy in the union:

"For God's sake, let's get down to business then and talk about it."

Mortimer previously had said the Martin group "is out to exclude the so-called left wing elements" while the position of his cohorts is that "as long as the employer has hired the left wing element, we can do nothing else but include it in the union."

Mortimer said the battle revolved around the question of "democracy" and the principle of "inclusion versus exclusion."

"The Martin faction is out to exclude the so-called left wing elements," he continued. "Our position

Advertises for Her Missing Sister and Learns She Has Two

La Crosse—(AP)—When Mrs. Alice Shaner of Stevens Point caused a notice to be inserted in a LaCrosse newspaper, seeking the whereabouts of a sister, she scarcely expected any results. Instead, she found two sisters.

The family was broken up 13 years ago with the death of the mother. Mrs. Shaner had married at the age of 14 at Merrillan Junction, and moved to Stevens Point. In the meantime, the two other sisters had married, becoming Mrs. Raymond Beier of nearby Stoddard, and Mrs. Claude Donehauer of LaCrosse.

The latter two were in contact but knew nothing of Mrs. Shaner's existence.

Yesterday, however, when Mrs. Shaner came to LaCrosse to close the gap of 18 years, expecting to find only Mrs. Donehauer, she also found Mrs. Beier.

The periods of spiritual ascension are the days and seasons of mind's creation, in which beauty, sublimity, purity and holiness—yea, the divine nature—appear in man and the universe never to disappear . . . Science reveals only one mind, and this one shining by its own light and governing the universe, including man, in perfect harmony."

Marines Officer Tells Rotary of Strife in Orient

Major Joseph Nettekoven Addresses Clintonville Organization

Clintonville—Major Joseph Nettekoven of San Diego, Calif., veteran field officer of the United States Marines now vacationing with Mrs. Nettekoven at Bear Lake near Manawa, was the after dinner speaker at the Rotary club's Monday noon meeting at Hotel Marson. The officer, who spent several years in the Orient, described the scenes where the present warfare in China is taking place. "Life in China," said the speaker," is cheap and there is no incentive on the part of the Chinese to feel any regard for nationalism or national patriotism. The poorer classes are unable to make further sacrifices, already being so miserable with their penny a day wages which provide only a mere existence.

"The brilliant success of the Chinese in their recent encounter with the Japanese," he said, "thoroughly showed the military training and leadership they had received from Russia and Germany in recent years. "The Chinese ," the speaker said, "are equipped with more modern weapons than they are generally accredited with. They needed only training and leadership to present a most formidable front against the Japanese.

"The white Russians, driven out of Russia with the fall of the czar, were well-trained in military practice and have been utilized by the Chinese in recent years to perfect their military training, which also accounted for the present success of the Chinese armies."

New Drive Probable

Major Nettekoven felt that the present Chinese might encourage them to try to recapture Pieping, in which case there would probably be a large loss of life to the Nationals which include Americans.

The major's daughter, a June bride, is now with her husband, an officer in the United States Marines, at Peiping and both were safe according to a cablegram received last week.

Major Nettekoven did not believe the the United States would be drawn into the war between China and Japan, although he predicted that it might be necessary to make a naval display in the Orient to assert our rights more forcibly to the warring nations.

The speaker has been in United States army service for 40 years, the last 23 being spent with the marines. He began his service in the Spanish-American War, after which he served in the Chippewa Indian war, the Philippine Insurrection, and in battles at San Domingo and Haiti. He spent two years in France and Germany during the World war, and two years in China during the previous Japanese conflict. The major later served for two years in demilitarizing the island of Guam, located in the Pacific. During his stay in China, the officer made military surveys of the territory where the present battles are being waged. During his talk to the club he also described the Chinese cities and the life and customs of the people.

Another guest of the club was John Nettekoven, a brother of the speaker.

Luncheon guests of Mrs. Francis Higgins Monday at her home on E. Fourteenth street were her cousin, Mrs. Joseph Nettekoven of San Diego, Calif., Mrs. John Nettekoven of Fond du Lac, Mrs. Edward Roman and Mrs. Robert Smith of Manawa. Major and Mrs. Nettekoven expect to leave next week for San Diego, after a few weeks' vacation in Wisconsin.

State Seeks Bids For Grading Seven Miles on Route 96

Commission Also Will Pave Another 1 1-2 Miles on Superhighway 41

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Bids will be opened August 27 at the offices of the state highway commission for grading a 7.7 mile stretch of highway 96, known as the Kaukauna-Wrightstown road, and the paving of 1.47 additional miles of new superhighway 41 west of Appleton, according to William E. O'Brien, member of the commission.

Reports that a relocation of highway 96 is contemplated were dissipated by Mr. O'Brien who pointed out that the commission plans only to grade and improve the highway, and to remove some of the curves. The highway will not be relocated to old highway, he explained.

The paving of superhighway 41 for a distance of 1.47 miles will complete the southern portion of that project to the junction with highway 10 west of Appleton. The balance of the route, which the commission has decided will run through the Outagamie county asylum farm, has been delayed because of the controversy with officials of the city of Appleton and Outagamie county, who wanted a routing nearer the city.

Completion of that part of the highway depends on the action of the Outgamie county board, which has postponed a decision on the question, O'Brien pointed out.

Arlene Groat, of the county agent's office, and Marion Van Vreede are at the fair where Miss Groat is acting as the county's representative in food judging and Miss Van Vreede in clothing judging. Mabel Kluze and Mildred Ruwoldt are back after demonstrating at the fair Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Emil Krueger, Kaukauna, one of the county 4-H leaders, returned last night after helping arrange the county's home economics booth. Kermit Meltz of the Elm Tree club also returned last night after arranging the county's agricultural booth and a model bull pen. Meltz is a member of the state fair exhibits' committee.

Billy Tubbs and Harold Blanshan, boy demonstrators who won first place at the Seymour fair, left for Milwaukee to attend the fair yesterday with Frank Tubbs, president of the 4-H Club Leaders federation in the county, and Sylvia Ploeger, who will represent the county in a dress review.

Assemble Seine To Remove Rough Fish From Lake

New Equipment to Permit Large Hauls in Deeper Water

Rough fish removal from the deeper waters of Lake Winnebago will be accomplished this fall by means of a new seine, which is now being assembled by the rough fish removal crew, under the supervision of Harry Hayes, at Oshkosh. The webbing for the seine is coming into Oshkosh in parts, and is being assembled as quickly as it arrives. Mr. Hayes said the net would be ready for use in about 12 days. When finally assembled, it will be 8,000 feet long and have a depth of 30 feet, the largest net ever to be used on Lake Winnebago.

The new seine will be nearly twice as long as the present one, and will enable the department to make large hauls in deep water. According to Mr. Hayes operations will be conducted as in the past whenever large schools of fish are located.

Already approximately 800,000 pounds of rough fish have been removed this summer, the total being a part of about 3,000,000 pounds of carp and sheephead which have been taken from Wisconsin lakes by the state conservation department this season.

Almost all of the carp taken from Lake Winnebago have been marketable. Before sale the carp are kept in a pen on Asylum point, where visitors have not been encouraged because entrance to the carp pond requires driving through the Winnebago hospital grounds, but it is planned to open a shorter road to the pond to facilitate public inspection.

Argentina's New Deal Is Current Campaign Issue

Candidates Argue Merits Of Augustin Justo's Administration

Buenos Aires—(AP)—Though he is not a candidate for reelection (the constitution forbids that), President Augustin J. Justo is the one big issue in the campaign leading to Argentina's presidential election on September 5.

Two oldtime friends, now political foes, are the principal candidates for the six-year term:

Dr. Roberto M. Ortiz, until recently finance minister in the Justo cabinet, bears the Justo banner and points to returning prosperity as reason enough for continuing the Justo "new deal" financial policies.

Dr. Marcelo T. de Alvear, Argentina's president from 1922 to 1928, charges the Justo regime with political corruption and calls for a housecleaning.

Dr. Ortiz is supported by the two parties making up the conservative-liberal coalition which has supported the Justo administration. Dr. de Alvear is the nominee of the Radical party which claims support of the Argentine masses.

Issues Are Sharp

The government party, supporting Dr. Ortiz, points out that when President Justo took office in 1932, Argentina was in the midst of the depression, its budget was out of gear and farm prices were down. In the succeeding six years, they continue, in contrast, the budget has been balanced, emergency taxes have been reduced, the foreign debt burden has been lowered and farm prices have risen.

To this the Radical party, supporting Dr. de Alvear, replies that the Justo regiment used strong-arm methods and ballot frauds to retain control of the national congress in last year's provincial elections.

Three Old Friends

All three leading figures in the campaign—Justo, Ortiz and Alvear—used to be teammates in the Radical party. When Alvear represented the more conservative wing of the Radicals as president, both Justo and Ortiz were in his cabinet.

Dr. Ortiz, a thick-set man of 51, who always has espoused liberal principles, has combined politics, business and the practice of law with equal success. He is moderately rich, interested in several large concerns and is a former attorney for the British-owned Great Western railway.

Dr. de Alvear, 69, is a member of an old Argentine family. His great great grandfather was a Spanish admiral who came out to Argentina in colonial days to settle a Spanish-Portuguese dispute over colonial frontiers. His 1922-28 administration sailed along smoothly, and he was removed from party leadership before the Radical catastrophe came with the 1930 revolution.

NEW POSTER

Printed in striking colors, supplies of the above pictured poster symbolizing the function of the Wisconsin State Employment service have been received at the Appleton and Neenah branch offices for distribution to public buildings and private establishments. The poster was prepared as a federal art project and is 13 by 22 inches and is printed in blue, gold and black.

Schneider Opposed to Fusing Mail Routes

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — Consolidation of two rural mail routes in Cato is being protested by congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton at the request of the Manitowoc County Rural Carriers' association.

Schneider explained that post office officials filled a vacancy at Reedsville by a transfer from Brillion, and then filled the Brillion vacancy with a transfer from Cato, combining two Cato routes.

Schneider, who is opposed to the policy of consolidation of rural routes on the grounds that it decreases employment, protested to post office officials

It is contended that the consolidation order violates a section of the postal laws which provides for consolidation only in case of death, retirement or dismissal. Protestors contend that, if a consolidation were to be made, it should have been at Reedsville rather than at Cato where there was no vacancy.

Slight Damage Caused By Traffic Accident

Cars owned by Arthur Rich, route 2, Manitowoc, and Charles Lamons, 908 N. Richmond street, were involved in a minor collision at 6:30 last night in front of 204 N. Richmond street. The Lamons' machine, driven by Isabell Leonards, Bedford, Ind., was going north on Richmond street and struck the left rear bumper and fender of the parked Rich car, police reported. None was injured and both machines were slightly damaged.

Posters Depict Function of Job Service in State

Appleton, Neenah Offices Get Placards for Display In Public Buildings

Supplies of attractive posters, symbolizing the function of the Wisconsin State Employment service, were received today at the Appleton and Neenah offices and will be displayed in public buildings throughout the entire area.

Prepared as a federal art project of the Wisconsin Works Progress administration, the 13 by 22 inch poster was designed and painted by John Van Anken of Milwaukee and is printed in striking colors, blue, gold and black.

The poster is designed to symbolize industry, with the employment service as a coordinating gear which makes possible the smooth and harmonious operation of our industrial system, Fred R. Gehrke, manager of the Appleton office, said.

Connecting Gear

The growing importance of the employment service to industry is shown by the fact that so far this year the 34 offices in Wisconsin have placed an average of 5,500 people a month in private industry. This figure is about 47 per cent above the corresponding period of last year and includes executives, managers, superintendents, accountants, clerical and professional workers as well as laborers, skilled and unskilled, Gehrke said.

Records show that practically 100 per cent of the active job seekers are registered with the employment service. "Unemployment compensation has brought a higher class of applicants to the employment offices which makes it possible to better serve, promptly and efficiently, the needs of employers," he continued.

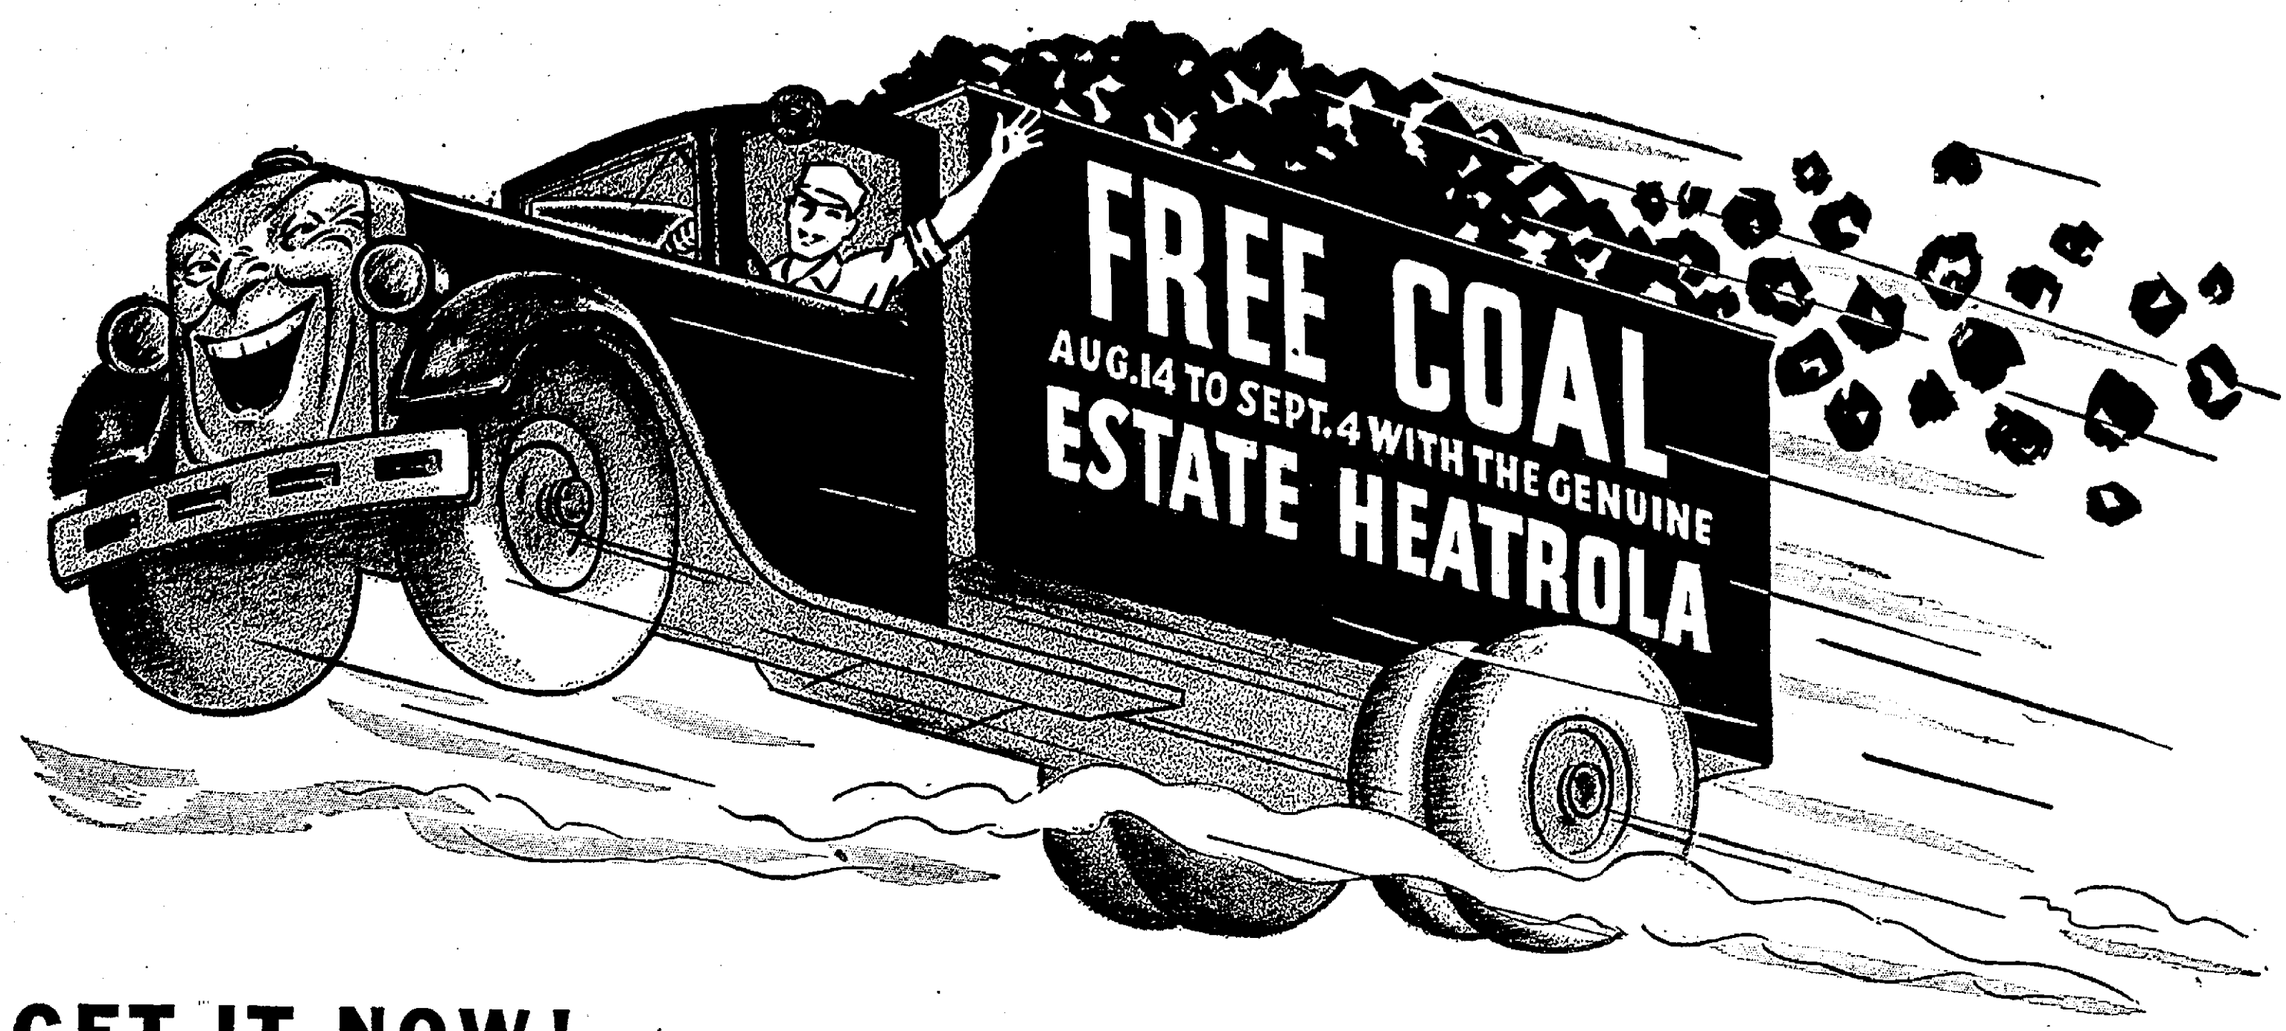

The office at 123 S. Appleton street, Appleton, serves Outgamie, Shawano and Waupaca counties while the office at 110½ N. Commercial street, Neenah, serves the Neenah-Menasha area. The Wisconsin State Employment service is a division of the Industrial Commission of Wisconsin and is affiliated with the United States Employment service, Department of Labor.

NON-SUPPORT CASES

Cases of three men charged with non-support were continued in municipal court Monday afternoon by Judge Thomas H. Ryan. John A. Jansen, Appleton, was given a continuation to Aug. 28 in his case, while Matt Van Dalen, Menasha, and Arthur Burmeister, Appleton each received continuations until Sept. 25.

T. S. Davis Named Administrator of County Pensions

Given Six of Eight Votes by Executive Committee of Board

The executive committee of the county board of supervisors Monday afternoon hired T. S. Davis, 718 S. Mason st., as county pension administrator at a salary of $166.67 a month. The pension department will be placed on its own system and will have an office downtown, probably in the old post office.

The action was taken in response to a statement from George M. Keith, state supervisor of pensions at Madison, that the county records were inadequate and not up to date, that many of the cases were not investigated properly and that the personnel was inadequate.

The executive board interviewed six applicants for the position. Alderman Gustave Keller, 410 W. Eighth street, discussed the possibility of securing F. A. W. Hammond, city relief director, to handle the post but the board favored a full time man. Davis received six votes while Anton Jensen of Little Chute received two.

The board also voted to hire pension investigators at $75 per month plus mileage and stenographers at $65 per month.

Releases Parents After Baby Is Taken From Home

Shell Lake, Wis. — (AP) — Sheriff Robert H. Willis, asked by Minneapolis police to stop a car containing persons who were reported to have taken a 16-month-old baby from a house in that city, said last night he had questioned and released the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren P. Larson.

According to the sheriff, the couple told him they had been unable to care for the child for sometime and had left him with Larson's sister, Mrs. A. J. Long, Minneapolis.

The sheriff said Larson had obtained work and that the couple took the baby from the yard of the Long home this afternoon. After he released them they headed for Spooner, he said.

Minneapolis police gave Sheriff Willis the number of the car and it was stopped here.

25 Cents Per Letter Probable Airmail Rate

Washington—(AP)—Airmail to Europe, perhaps to be inaugurated this fall, probably will cost 25 cents a letter, postal officials said today.

"We had hoped to make it 20 cents," said Harllee Branch, second assistant postmaster general. "Now it looks more like 25."

He explained that congress' failure to authorize a poundage rate would make the cost greater.

Checkoff Boosted by Cost of Enforcing Milk Control Law

Appleton milk dealers yesterday received a notice from F. Schultheis of the state department of agriculture and markets fixing one cent per 100 pounds of fluid milk as the checkoff the department requires to finance administration of the 1937 milk control law.

The checkoff is effective July 1, 1937, the communication from Schultheis said, and deductions are to be made from the price paid by dealers to the farmer producers.

In establishing the deduction at one cent per hundred pounds, the department invoked the maximum permitted under the law. The new checkoff on fluid milk only will replace the present deduction of one-half cent per hundred on all milk produced and handled.

The revised milk control law vests power with the department to establish prices in the various milk markets of the state and to supervise milk marketing generally.

Beg Pardon

Lutzow said he went after an officer himself and was there while the patrolman was questioning drivers of the other cars. A county traffic officer reported after the accident that a traffic jam was narrowly averted after the crash and that when he looked for Lutzow to question him, the Kaukauna man could not be found.

Lull in Farm Work Permits Painting, Building Repairs

Most of the farmers in the vicinity of Appleton have completed their threshing, rural mail carriers said this morning. Here and there a farmer has started to fill silo, but most of them are filling in the time between threshing and filling silo with odd jobs, such as cutting quack, making repairs and painting. More repair work and painting has been done this summer than any since the depression, the carriers said. Practically every farm has been improved in some way.

The barley crop has been good, averaging 40 to 50 bushels to the acre, with the yield as high as 60 in some places. The corn crop is not up to normal, and the cabbage crop is poor, they reported.

Albert Emons, route 4, is building an addition to his barn, and also re-roofing the barn with steel.

August Schroeder, town of Greenville, has just finished a new barn, 36 by 100 feet.

Recover Stolen Car at Seymour; Occupant Escapes

Police, Sheriff's Officers Find Loot in Wisconsin Rapids Machine

Acting on a tip furnished by Mrs. William Beyer, Seymour, the sheriff's department and the Seymour chief of police last night recovered an automobile stolen at Wisconsin Rapids, three stolen slot machines, tobacco and cigarets, but the man driving the car escaped in the darkness after being accosted as he attempted to leave with the machine. The man, believed to be a convict escaped from the state prison, fled when Police Chief Joseph Decker turned a flashlight on him as he attempted to enter the stolen machine.

Mrs. Beyer called the chief when she noticed the car being parked near her house frequently. The chief watched the car and when the driver appeared Becker turned his light on him. The man turned and fled in the darkness. Becker called Undersheriff Fred Frank, who lives in Seymour.

Release Transient

The pair searched the neighborhood and Frank then called the sheriff's department for more help. Sheriff John F. Lappen and his deputies assisted in the hunt, which lasted until this morning. All highways were watched and farmers today were asked to watch for suspicious characters. Sheriff's deputies stopped the Green Bay and Western train last night and questioned a transient but released him when he furnished an alibi.

Search for fingerprints was made this morning in the stolen machine. The car, stolen a week ago at Wisconsin Rapids, belonged to Dwight H. Tease, 981 Avenue, Wisconsin Rapids, an insurance salesman. A card showing theft insurance on the automobile had expired on Aug. 7, was found in the car, the sheriff's department reported.

Leaders Confer With Roosevelt On Special Term

sion, this party chieftain retorted that a special session would not mean "taking 15 minutes off the regular session."

Some house members nevertheless said they would prefer to have the farm and labor standards issues disposed of in a special session, and talk persisted that the president would call one.

Representative Miller (D-Ark.) said he thought a special session might be desirable.

Miller talked to the president yesterday and predicted afterwards that Mr. Roosevelt would announce in a few days whether he will call one.

Speaker Bankhead at Birmingham predicted yesterday the session would be called

Wage-Hour Bill Issue

Those arguing a special session might create new party discord pointed particularly to the strong opposition from southern congressmen to the wage-hour bill. This measure, passed by the senate, was withheld from the house floor by a combination of Republicans and southern Democrats on the rules committee.

Since the next session, special or regular, will be a continuation of the present congress the legislation will have the same status, when it begins, that it held at adjournment last week.

Both houses have agreed to make farm legislation the first order at the next session. Members of the senate agriculture committee, arranging to work during the recess, said they would have a farm bill ready by November.

SEES SPECIAL TERM

New York—(AP)— United States Senator Joseph F. Guffey (D-Pa.) today predicted a special session of congress next November that would pass wage-hours, anti-lynching and farm loan bills.

In an interview here, prior to departure for Europe tomorrow, Guffey scoffed at published reports of a "third party" trend. He termed the south "overwhelmingly" for President Roosevelt's policies, and forecast a "new, more liberal Democratic party" making its sentiments felt in the 1938 congressional primaries.

Guffey, whose attack upon some of his colleagues from the senate floor last Friday provoked heated response, indicated he did not expect any sort of "purge" in the 1938 congressional primaries against those senators who had displeased the administration.

Chinese Advance Guards Threaten 30,000 Japanese

Force Southwest of Peiping Immobilized by Torrential Rains

Tientsin—(AP)—Crack Chinese advance guards swept around both flanks of the Japanese army southwest of Peiping today and struck simultaneously in an effort to pinch off the 30,000 Japanese troops immobilized there by torrential rains.

A major battle with at least a quarter of a million men engaged was developing along a 150-mile front. China's modernized army was attacking from four directions to thrust the Japanese army out of conquered northeast China.

The Japanese front 30 miles southwest of Peiping was in danger of being snapped off by the surprise Chinese strategy and grave apprehension was apparent in all the Japanese areas south and west of Peiping.

All Japanese troops were hurriedly withdrawn from their extended positions west of Peiping and concentrated on the east bank of the Yungting river in the Fengtai and Wanpinghsien suburbs of Peiping and in Peiping proper.

Wide Aerial Attack

Japanese warplanes were bombing the entire area from Mentoukow, 20 miles west of Peiping, to a point 40 miles to the southeast on the Peiping-Tientsin railway.

From a strong advance base at Chochow, only 30 miles southwest of Peiping, the Chinese army thrust three divisions against the Japanese positions at Lianghsiang, five miles to the north.

One division made a show of force against the Japanese frontal positions while one sped past each flank and then struck. The Chinese left wing advanced as far as Nentoukow before it pivoted while the right wing penetrated to Kangchia, 10 miles south of the Marco Polo bridge across the Yungting at Wanpinghsien.

This placed both arms of the pincer well in the rear of the main body of Japanese at Lianghsiang. It was almost impossible for reinforcements and supplies to reach the main army. Roads to Lianghsiang were choked with hundreds of Japanese trucks stuck in the mud and abandoned.

Traffic Mired

Nearly all traffic was mired at Changsintien, just beyond Marco Polo bridge and the Japanese were commandeering mules and donkeys and all kinds of carts and wagons in an effort to get through to the front.

Japanese dead and wounded were being brought into Peiping, indicating that a battle of major proportions was being fought to the southwest.

Twenty truck loads of dead were brought into Peiping today in one convoy, black flags dipping somberly as they chugged slowly over the rutted roads.

In the Tientsin sector of the huge semi-circular front Chinese forces were pressing the Japanese back. Reports from the front said the Japanese had been forced to abandon their advance field headquarters southwest of here, leaving a number of tanks and all field equipment.

The Japanese troops based on Peiping were further harassed by bands of Chinese irregulars, operating in the hills to the northwest.

Fight Irregulars

Large detachments of Japanese were engaged by these irregulars, thus being kept from use against the regular troops rushed north by the Nanking government to dispute Japan's claim to domination of North China.

Japanese bombing planes, believed to be based at Miyun, 50 miles northeast of Peiping, were blasting at the Chinese advance. A squadron of 118 made flight after flight to the front lines today, flying in formation of threes. Five others concentrated on the area west of Marco Polo bridge.

Heavy and almost uninterrupted artillery duels were being fought on all fronts.

The Japanese army was preparing for a defense up to the walls of Peiping if the Chinese should push forward. Japanese officers were directing Chinese peasants in cutting down the luxuriant corn crops all the way from Peiping to Wanpinghsien, clearing the fields for action.

$15,000 FIRE DAMAGE

Wausau, Wis. —(AP)— Damages estimated close to $15,000 were caused last night at the plant of the Ringle Brick company at Ringle, near here. The Wausau Fire department aided volunteers in fighting the blaze for four hours. The damaged buildings will be rebuilt.

New Appleton Rabbi Owes Life to Palestine Sheik

An escape from death through the aid of an Arabian sheik during the Arabian riots in Palestine in 1929 was experienced by Rabbi Ralph DeKoven, new spiritual leader of Moses Montefiore congregation, corner of Bateman and Atlantic streets, who began his duties as rabbi here last week.

Rabbi DeKoven who, after years of study at Chicago Hebrew Theological college left for Palestine to take work in Talmudic literature at Hebron college, was in Palestine when the Arabian riots broke out in 1929. He and several other students at Hebron college went to the home of an older rabbi during the riots and massacres, and an Arabian sheik who was a friend of the older man came there to offer his protection. Later the Arabs who were pillaging Jewish home came to the rabbi's house, but the sheik told them there were no Jews quartered there. When they insisted on entering, the old sheik said they would have to kill him first, whereupon the Arabs left.

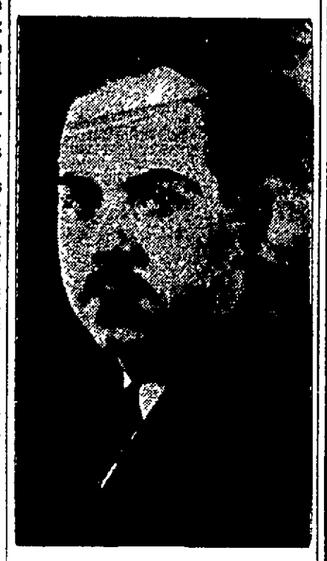

Resumes Studies

After his escape, Rabbi DeKoven went to Jerusalem and from there back to Chicago for a visit with his parents. Later, he returned to Palestine to continue his work in Talmudic literature and theology. Following his ordination he married a daughter of Samuel Sotzky, prominent Jewish settler in Jerusalem, and soon after left with his wife for Chicago where he took charge of B'nai Sholom temple.

The new spiritual leader, who, with his wife and daughter is living at 503 N. Durkee street, was born in Chicago, the son of Dr. B. DeKoven, physician and pharmacist. He studied at the University of Chicago and Crane college where he took English literature and philosophy, and after taking work in Chicago Hebrew Theological college, went to Palestine where he received his theological and rabbinical training in the famous rabbinical Yeshivah in Hebron. He was ordained as a rabbi by one of the great Hebrew scholars of Talmudic and theological philosophy, and has attained a reputation not only for his accomplishments in Hebrew and secular education, but also for his knowledge in the field of sources in Talmudic literature.

Rabbi DeKoven comes to Appleton from B'nai Sholom temple, Albany Park, Chicago, where he was rabbi for the last five years. While there he organized a class at B'nai Sholom on Hebrew and general education which was attended by over 100 pupils each day.

Presiding officers of Montefiore congregation are I. Bahcall, president; Louis Blinder, vice president; Abe Goldin, Kaukauna, secretary; Nathan Burstein, Neenah, treasurer. The congregation which includes the affiliated Jewish settlements of New London, Neenah, Kaukauna and other nearby places has been without a rabbi for several years.

NEW RABBI HERE

Rabbi Ralph DeKoven, above, arrived in Appleton recently to take over his duties as spiritual leader at Moses Montefiore congregation. He was rabbi of B'nai Sholom temple in Albany Park, Chicago, for the last five years.

Parole Violator Goes To State Reformatory

Anton Doxtator, an Oneida Indian, today was taken to the Green Bay State Reformatory for violation of his probation. Doxtator, who was given a stay of execution of a sentence of one to two years at the state reformatory following conviction of aiding and abetting in an assault and theft July 27, 1936, was apprehended by the sheriff's department after a notice had been received from the state board of control that Doxtator had violated his parole by drinking, fighting and frequenting taverns.

It Is Said--

That in years of feeding tramps or other "strays" who come to her back door, yesterday was the first time Mrs. E. Filen, 528 N. Appleton street, ever had a woman ask for food. The woman who was elderly said she lived in Appleton.

North Western to Remodel Station

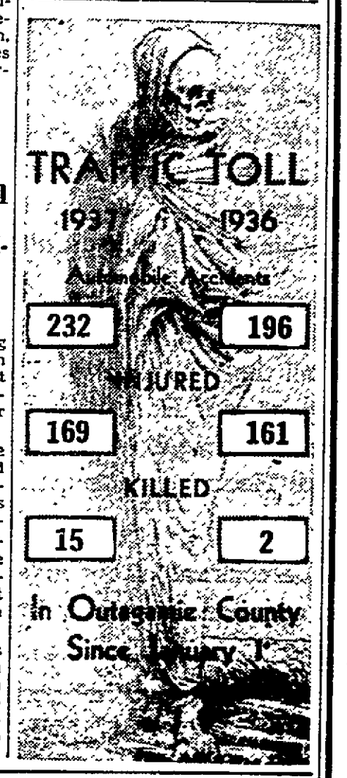

Work on Appleton Building to Begin Within 10 Days, Agent Says

Construction on the remodeling of the Chicago and North Western Railway passenger depot will start within the next 10 days, F. A. Semmelhack, freight and passenger agent, announced today.

Most of the construction will be done by the railroad's bridge and building organization, but the heating contract will be let locally. Bids have been called for on the installation of the steam heating system.

The inside of the station will be rearranged, the ticket window being moved from the east to the west side. It is estimated the construction will take about a month.

The platform at the station has received a coat of tar, over which a coat of asphalt covering has been placed. This, together with the installation of rubber tires on all baggage trucks, has reduced noise to a minimum, Mr. Semmelhack said.

Guffey Speech Might Furnish Campaign Issue

Platform Planks Spring From Unexpected Quarters, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Sometimes out of an unexpected quarter—a speech, a letter, a debate in congress—comes the issue of a national campaign.

Lawrence

Stated in its simple form, the question is: Shall representative government in America survive, or shall it be replaced by the dictatorship of a political clique entrenched in power through the political use of federal offices and federal funds?

Mr. Guffey sets forth the proposition that a senator or representative elected on the Democratic ticket to congress must support 100 per cent the recommendations of President Roosevelt and that otherwise the congressman is an "ingrate" or a disloyal Democrat. This is a conception of party loyalty which, in recent years, has been put into effect in Nazi Germany and in Fascist Italy, where the national legislatures have lost their independence, where all decisions are made by Hitler or Mussolini and where the Fascist patry is the only political party allowed to exist.

Explanation of Meaning

If applied to the United States and if carried out with respect to Senator Guffey himself, it might mean, that, when Secretary Wallace persuades President Roosevelt that Europeans ought to buy more agricultural products here, and, to do this, tariffs on steel should be lowered so Americans would buy steel or more manufactured products from abroad, the presidential order for lower tariffs on Pennsylvania's products would have to be accepted by Mr. Guffey without a murmur. Heretofore, it has been assumed that a representative really represented the people of his district and that a senator represented the people of his state and their economic interests. Certainly the southern members of congress in the session just closed have not been unfaithful to their regional interests, for they have fought for cotton loans and have managed to block minimum wage legislation which they thought would arbitrarily raise costs of production in southern textile mills.

But Mr. Guffey's concept of party loyalty, even if not applied to local interests, is still more revolutionary when it touches national questions. On these, a senator or representative, according to the tenets of Guffeyism, is not to vote his own convictions, but is to suppress his own views and follow along with the wishes of the party leader—the president.

Thus, if the president wishes to destroy the effectiveness of one of the three branches of the American government, a United States senator elected in 1932 on the Roosevelt ticket is supposed to forfeit all rights to differ with Mr. Roosevelt and to go along in rubber-stamp fashion. Here is exactly how Mr. Guffey expressed it in his radio speech last week:

Tells Why He Was Elected

"I was elected to the United States senate in 1934 because I assured the voters of Pennsylvania that it was my intention to support loyalty and without wavering the program of the chief executive."

This means 100 per cent voting for all Roosevelt measures, even if they reduce the purchasing power of the pay envelopes of Pennsylvania workers. It means that, so far as Pennsylvania is concerned, there is no need for one of its United States senators in Washington to read bills, attend committee meetings, or consider legislation on its merits. All that would be necessary, as Senator Burke of Nebraska said in last week's debate, would be to telephone Mr. Farley or the White House and find out how to vote.

"Pennsylvania," said Mr. Burke, "may want that kind of representation in the senate, and, if they do, God bless them, let them have it; but to me it would seem that, if the state is to have that kind of representation, it might as well have a parrot in a cage in the secretary's office, and bring it in when the senator's name is called and have him say, 'Yes, Mr. President, count me for that, too.' That is not my idea of what a senator should do."

This Guffey view of government is, of course, close to Fascism. It certainly is not liberalism. The truly liberal point of view was best expressed by the late Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, Progressive, in senate debate as follows:

Congressmen Use Own Minds

"I had supposed until recently that it was the duty of senators and representatives in congress to vote and act according to their convictions. Quite another doctrine has recently been promulgated and that is the doctrine of standing back of the president without inquiring whether the president is right or wrong. For myself, I have never subscribed to that doctrine and never shall. I shall support the president in measures he proposes when I believe them to be right. I shall oppose measures proposed by the president when I believe them to be wrong."

Not far different from this was the eloquent statement of that brilliant young Progressive from Wyoming, Senator O'Mahoney, who in the senate last Saturday answered Mr. Guffey's challenge thus:

"I would rather walk out of the door of this chamber, and never return, than to surrender any honest conviction I have. I say to you, senators of the United States, so long as I am in this body, I shall raise my voice and cast my vote as my conscience dictates, and nobody, whether he comes from Pennsylvania or from New York or any other state, can tell me or the people of my state what I should or should not do."

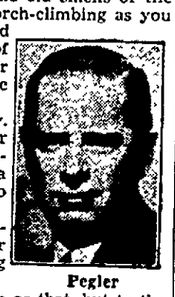

The view of the New Deal chieftains on representative government—shared in by Mr. Roosevelt—is a strange mixture of political spoils and political favor. If Mr. Roosevelt uttered a friendly word for a Democratic congressional candidate while visiting the latter's state in a campaign, this now is construed to put the Democrat, if elected, into a straitjacket. He is supposed to do the president's bidding even if contrary to his own convictions, or to the interests of the voters of his state. Both Mr. Farley and Mr. Guffey have a concept of party "loyalty" which is of the Tammany and political boss variety. If the American people want to be ruled by a political clique who seek to apply nationally the undemocratic and arbitrary methods of boss discipline and tyranny which have corrupted the governments of our large cities, where aldermen and councilmen get building contracts for their friends and henchmen precisely as Senator Guffey gets millions of dollars of government projects for his political friends and lieutenants in Pennsylvania, the voters of the country may have a chance in the 1938 congressional elections to express themselves on this very issue.

Pegler Thinks Mr. Farley Went Dumb on Walker Job

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Don't everybody speak at once, but will someone please explain to me how Jim Farley happened to let Jimmy Walker have the $12,000 a year tailor-made job on the New York Transit commission just at this time? By doing so, he stirred up all the old smells of the Walker administration, as dirty a job of political porch-climbing as you will find anywhere in the history of our cities, and dealt a swift kick in the pants to all the millions of poor, earnest mugg-type citizens who take their citizenship seriously and never can quite convince themselves that office holding is a racket.

Pegler

There are still a lot of these people in the country. They get cynical now and again, as when Walker took it on the lam for Europe, but they love to believe in public office as a public trust, and after a while they cool out and return to their well-motto version of politics.

They had forgotten all about the Walker administration when, just at the point of starting another mayorality campaign, Farley lets this Walker thing happen.

I know Jim is supposed to be a genius and all such as that, but to the simple intelligence of George Spelvin, typical American, this seems to be a spectacular example of rotten timing. Sure, Jim likes to take care of his pals, and it is understood that he takes care of them at the suckers' expense, for that is politics. Nobody expects him to take care of them out of his own money.

But the whole purpose of this Walker thing is to qualify little Jim for a pension of something between $12,000 and $16,000 a year, and the time to have done that was at least a year ago, so that by now, with the city campaign warming up, the heat would have been off.

All Raking Through Files Would Be Over

All this raking back through the files, all this stuff about the bonds and the bank-roll, about the crooked judges and the tin-boxes would have been aired and gone with the wind long since. And, so brief is the memory and the indignation of the George Spelvins, little Jim might have been able to sail into the mayorally campaign on behalf of Farley's guy, Jerry Mahoney, unhampered by the necessity of pausing in the midst of a wise-crack to wipe the smear away.

Don't tell me I am wrong in assuming that Farley gave them the go-ahead on the Walker business. As I see it, little Jim is under obligations to big Jim, and never would have put himself into the situation, knowing the scandal that was sure to ensue, without Farley's consent. And that means Mr. Roosevelt's consent, too, because the president knows what goes on in the organization and Farley isn't in the habit of springing surprises on him.

Mr. Roosevelt examined little Jim up in Albany that time and knows all about his case, and I just don't think Farley and the boys in New York would have taken it on themselves to stir up this mess without assuring themselves that the boss didn't mind. And moreover, little Jim went down to Washington and saw Mr. Big a little while back. What do you suppose he saw him about? A dog?

"Are They Trying To Get Mahoney Licked?"

But what in the world were they thinking of, and what are they trying to do? Are they trying to get Mahoney licked, because, no kidding, can you think of any worse handicap to a fellow running for office than to send him out a guy to make speeches for him who is so busy with his own explanations that every time he opens his mouth he will remind the customers of all they don't want in public office? His very presence will stir up memories of Sam Seabury's investigation and of the dirty digs in Seabury's recent letter to the transit commission which little Jim very pointedly ignored in his squawk about the persecution the morning after.

People will be sure to couple Mahoney and Walker in the betting, and dopes who are nickeling along on small pay or no pay whatever will think of Walker's pension of $12,000 to $16,000, whatever the amount happens to be, and contrast the pension with his record and vote against Jerry just for spite.

To me it looks as though big Jim and the boss have thrown a cast-iron life-preserver to their pal, Jerry, but I am not very bright about the subtleties of political genius and maybe they just want to see how much handicap Mahoney can carry. Maybe they want La Guardia back in there, although that wouldn't be like Farley.

Well, I am not trying to tell you, I am asking you to tell me, because the thing kept me awake all night last night.

REA to Build Plant Near Chippewa Falls

Madison — (AP)—John A. Becker, state rural electrification director, announced today that the federal REA has tentatively approved letting of a contract for supplying generating plant equipment to the Wisconsin power co-operative in Chippewa and adjoining counties to the Bush Sulzer Company, St. Louis.

The Missouri company submitted the low bid of $196,000 for construction of three 730 kilowatt units of the Diesel plant.

The project, Wisconsin's first REA-financed generating plant venture, has been allotted $650,000 in federal funds. It embraces 10 REA-financed distribution co-operatives, of which six are under construction.

Present plans call for construction of the plant three miles north of Chippewa Falls on Highway 53. It will supply co-operative members in Buffalo, Chippewa, Clark, Dunn, Eau Claire, Jackson, Pierce, Pepin, Taylor, Trempealeau and St. Croix counties.

The first unit of transmission lines will extend 225 miles, Becker said, and the plant probably will begin serving adjacent co-operatives before the end of the year.

Commuting Envoy Helps Americans Duck War Bombs

Ambassador to China Must Shuttle Between Two Cities

BY SIGRID ARNE

AP Feature Service Writer

Washington—Long-distance commuting is nothing new to Nelson T. Johnson, American ambassador to China. He's been living on sleepers between Nanking and Peiping the last seven years. But right now this train trip isn't exactly a joy ride.

While shuttling beween the two Chinese cities, the 50-year-old career diplomat must look out for the safety of hundreds of stranded, fear-stricken Americans caught in the crossfire between China and Japan.

He must know which roads are still safe to travel, what railroads are still running, whether a city's food supply will hold out, what local banks will honor checks. And if possible he must get promises from Chinese and Japanese officers to keep random bombs out of the American embassy's backyard.

Likes Rail Travel

Ambassador Johnson's commuting is necessary because of a unique arrangement in China. It's the only foreign country in which the United States maintains two official embassies. Nanking is now the capital, but Peiping is the old center of negotiations. So the ambassador rushes to Peiping when he seeks some agreement among all the foreign nations represented there, and then hurries back to Nanking when he has business to do with the Chinese government.

When the Chinese Nationalist government first established its headquarters in Nanking, Johnson, then minister to China—he was named the first U. S. ambassador to China two years ago—took the inconvenient arrangement with a smile.

"My desire," he said, "is to keep in closest touch with government officials. I don't mind railroad travel. In fact, I rather like it, especially with as comfortable sleepers as these. It's only two nights and one day, and I work en route. So long as the capital is Nanking, and the legations remain in Peiping, I am going to be a commuter."

Knows His China

Johnson has spent half his life in the Far East. He was initiated into its frequent crises when at 24 he crossed into Wu-Chang to observe a revolution. His work was praised by the state department, and the following year he was appointed consul at Chung-King.

He speaks Chinese fluently and makes a hobby of Chinese painting.

Six years ago he was married to Miss Jane Beck at the American consulate in Tientsin. They have a four-year-old son and a two-year-old daughter.

How Appleton Grew Under Its 30 Mayors Since 1857

(This is the twenty-eighth of a series of articles discussing Appleton's mayors and the important matters occuring during their administrations. These articles will appear once a week in the Post-Crescent.)

BY L. J. BERUS

Building and construction marked the 2-year term of Mayor Henry Reuter in 1922 and 1923. After several years of planning and discussion construction of the Lawe street and Memorial drive, then Cherry street, bridges was started. Shortly before the end of his term contracts were let for two junior high school buildings, Roosevelt and Wilson.

A drive was started to raise $125,000 for a Masonic temple at College avenue and Drew streets. A campaign also was started for a new gymnasium for Lawrence college. Construction of the Insurance building on W. College avenue was completed by the Aid Association for Lutherans.

A drastic change in the school system was made when the union plan was adopted to replace the district plan. A zoning ordinance for the city also was adopted. Steps were taken to create a park board to be in charge of the city parks and land for a park in the Fourth ward was purchased.

Oneida street and College avenue were named as the dividing lines for numbering and names of many streets were changed. Among the most prominent changes were the adoption of Badger avenue for State road and Wisconsin avenue for Second avenue.

An areating system was installed at the water plant to remove offensive odor from the drinking water during warm months and a change in the water commission, whereby members were elected by the council, was made.

MAYOR REUTER

Keeping pace with the climb of prosperity in 1922 and 1923, building activities jumped to make the term of Mayor Henry Reuter, above, stand out in Appleton's history. Construction of the Lawe street and Memorial drive bridges were started and contracts for two junior high school buildings let. The Insurance building was completed and campaigns were started to raise funds for a Masonic temple and a new Lawrence college gymnasium.

Large Block of Bonus Bonds Is Cashed Here

A block of 31 bonus bonds, one of the largest single blocks to be cashed here, was presented at the postoffice last week, postmaster Stephen D. Balliet said yesterday. About 75 per cent of the bonds issued in the country have been cashed, the postmaster added.

Outagamie county bonds are being cashed spasmodically, and each man seems to have a definite object in view, Mr. Balliet said. The two reasons why most bonds are cashed are to pay off obligations and to improve homes.

Hear Objections to Street Improvement

Objections to assessments on graveling and installing a water main on Eighth street from Outagamie street to Douglas street will be heard by the board of public works at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 31, at the city hall. The work was ordered by the common council at a recent meeting.

Three Reckless Drivers Fined in Municipal Court

Two Arrested by County Police Following Traffic Accidents

Three motorists were fined for reckless driving and a fourth was fined for speeding in municipal court Monday by Judge Thomas H. Ryan.

Cecil Fahrenkrug, Nichols, who said he was working at West De Pere, was fined $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty of reckless driving. Fahrenkrug was arrested by county police following an accident Aug. 19 at Black Creek, in which several persons were hurt.

Lawrence Clement, 99 Grove street, Oshkosh, was fined $10 and costs when he entered a plea of guilty to a reckless driving charge of the county highway traffic department. The court was told that Clement's car was involved in an accident in which three persons were injured Sunday afternoon at Little Chute. Three cars figured in the crash, which occurred on Highway 41.

Albert Winius, Little Chute, also pleaded guilty of reckless driving and was given a fine of $10 and costs. Winius, county police charged, was zigzagging in and out of traffic Sunday, was backfiring the motor of his car and operating his car with insufficient brakes.

Clarence W. Otterman, 1518 N. Fifteenth street, Sheboygan, was fined $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty of speeding. Appleton police charged Otterman drove 49 miles per hour on W. Seymour street at 1:30 Sunday afternoon.

TAX GROUP TO MEET

The illegal tax committee will meet at 9:30 Friday morning at the county clerk's office at the courthouse. Hearings on illegal taxes are scheduled

WHEN A RULER IS IN A HUFF

The insolence of the Guffey attack on Senator Wheeler was only less evident than the assurance by the speaker that he was supported, if not stimulated, by the White House.

That a man of Wheeler's character, integrity and spotless record should be taunted and threatened by a servile valet of the Chief Executive is the price that honor pays for failing to bend the knee and kiss the rod.

Wheeler's record at Washington for nearly 20 years might fitly be compared to the records of Jefferson and Jackson, men whose livery the President pretends to wear while he stabs their homely but enduring virtues, their rugged, dependable principles, in the back.

No one would think of comparing playboy Jimmy Walker to Senator Wheeler. One might as well compare a circus yodeler to the pioneer who cleared the land, built his home, raised his family and constructed honest government in the face of constant perils.

Yet Wheeler and Walker must be considered together. For there is no avoiding the facts.

Wheeler stands scourged and maligned. Walker not only is received with fond embraces and caresses but introduced to a pension more than 50 per cent greater than the great Montanian's salary.

Thus look, oh people of a democracy, upon the rewards of the servile who bend over the great one's hand and pledge fealty and loyalty to his person, and then cast eyes at the one who dared to speak his honest mind, now fighting the power of the national administration as well as the customary home opposition.

For Wheeler spoke out truly and fairly. And Walker won by slinking through back doors and mumbling words of everlasting obedience.

Walker first called on the President about a month ago. Then he called on Mr. Farley. Then he was appointed "Assistant Counsel" by the New York Transit Commission, an institution directly under the guiding hand of Mr. Farley. Mr. Walker's submission and his pledge of allegiance came just in time. For a few days after his job commenced he became entitled to a pension of over $16,000 per annum. And this although he fled from office under attack after sufficient evidence had been adduced to even prove to a blind man that his office was honeycombed with graft and his rule knew corruption more intimately than any other visitor.

And so we are back to Henry the VIII who dealt in court favorites, rewarded the subservient and penalized the candid.

Couriers come and go. An important employment of the day is to become versed in the soft and charming words by which soft and charming people convey the thoughts to majesty that whither thou goest we will go and whatever thou thinkest we will think and when thou sayest yes we will bow our heads in unison. Meanwhile, shabbily dressed and yet not alone, men of the Wheeler type walk apart.

When the people wake up, as they will, the homely virtues of honor and character will be rewarded and the man-Fridays, tailcoaters and ventriloquist dummies will be swept out with the empty champagne bottles.

JIM CROW AND THE FARMER

Since the first day that man used a crooked stick to scrape soil and deposit seeds he has looked upon the crow as his sworn enemy, an enemy of the kind created no more certainly even by the letting of blood. For food is essential, and the food thief becomes a foe.

Yet the American Nature Association speaks to the farmers of Wisconsin, and those other states where organized drives have been instituted to destroy these great black birds, and points to their worth.

As an advocate for the crow, who now we may picture in the prisoner's dock pleading for his life, the Association points to the crow's diet as consisting principally of grasshoppers and of only sufficient corn to round out a good dinner with a tasty dessert.

So the farmer must weigh the depredations of the crow against those of the grasshopper, and, as with everything else in life, select the lesser of the two evils. Stated otherwise, he must pay the crow wages for destroying voracious swarms of grasshoppers. At this statement of the case by his advocate, the crow lifts his head and looks the world in the face as an honorable workman merely asking a living wage. But before the prosecutor is through Jim Crow will hear himself denounced as a raucous racketeer living off the fat of the land whose assistance to the farmer is of no more consequence and no more happily given than when his last remains fertilize the land.

If our towering and extensive universities would do the farmer a good turn, they might let communism and atheism rest a while and cross-breed until they produce a crow that hates corn and lives on grasshoppers alone.

WE AVERT A WAR WITH FRANCE

What is there between America and France that makes for constant misunderstanding?

Are we never going to get along with the Gauls, try what both sides may?

As a sweet gesture of good-fellowship France, out of the goodness of her heart, is entertaining 10,000 American veterans this fall, hoping that no one mentions the war debt which will only drive her to her copyrighted answer, "Je ne comprend pas," which is "no compree" to the English speaking world.

Just the same, things were coming along pretty smoothly in view of the big entertainment this October when the mayor of Cannes stepped out of the parade to hand John, youngest prince of the House of Roosevelt, a bouquet plucked along the tumbling Var.

The noble prince, unwarned of the approaching felicity and failing to note the Napoleonic hat on his honor the mayor, merely grouched at the fact that a shadow had passed between himself and a glittering brunette, so he bravely squirted some champagne into the sputtering mayor's face, and all the efforts of diplomats and ambassadors and even the millions set aside for that big October party are jeopardized just because the brother-in-law of our DuPonts had so much champagne he wanted to throw some of it away.

But place a posy here for France. The Quai d'Orsay, just as the mayor of Cannes started a howl to the world, stepped on his bunions with an order, "fermes la bouche" and the office holder down on the Mediterranean, still hearing the thrilling music of Quand Madelon and the Marsellaise, saluted like a grenadier of the Old Guard and first forgot and then denied the incident like a gentlemanly co-respondent in a divorce court.

The next step in natural order will be an announcement by the Ladies' Home Journal that it will shortly print an article entitled "How to Teach Your Children to Carry Their Liquor."

And the author? Ah! The Author!

PRICE-FIXERS SURRENDER

Wisconsin's so-called liberal legislature, controlled by LaFollette Progressives and New Deal Democrats, recently permitted its "codes of fair competition" to die. So ends another experiment in price-fixing.

It was the clamor of public sentiment against the codes that reconciled their "liberal" sponsors to the law's demise. Persons whom those sponsors might have dubbed reactionary could have told them that the cause of real liberalism was not to be served by their twisted economics. All history sustains that sound point of view. Arbitrary interference with competition, especially in the field of prices, always has proved disillusioning, if not disastrous. Inevitably the Wisconsin codes tended to raise prices. They denied to the consumer any advantage derivable from greater efficiency and economy on the part of particular firms in the affected trades and industries. The Wisconsin "liberals" have been forced to face this unpalatable truth. Some of them, it is to be hoped, have learned the lesson that a continual invoking of the state to exercise control over human enterprise is a denial of essential liberalism, and an invitation to its authoritarian opposite.

Illinois retains on its statute books a "fair trade act," adopted in 1935. It falls short of the extreme position taken by the abandoned Wisconsin law, but it squints strongly in the same direction. It validates provisions in contracts between producers and merchandizers which require that the buyer will not resell the affected commodity at a price other than that stipulated by the producer. It is designed to prevent pricecutting in the case of articles of standard quality distributed under a trade-mark, brand or name. Obviously it acts as a restraint of competition among retail merchandizers.

The idea of price-fixing still ferments in the White house and congress, where conceptions of liberalism are even more bewildering than in Wisconsin.—Chicago News.

Aint' we got fun watching this political kalcieoscope. And the panorama ain't going to shorten my life any.

First there's hilarity in the press and papers 'cause Roosevelts efforts to rejuvenate a superannuated supreme court was wrecked in a political maelstrom and then there's a haw in the harangue cause Roosevelt didn't ask the papers whom he should appoint as judge.

By the howl and hysterics the appointment left in its wake, most of the papers must have expected Roosevelt was going to appoint Hoover to the bench.

Then in Wisconsin there's regular Republicans who'd like to fuse with the Democrats. And Brother Broughton of Sheboygan don't like to get in the melting pot.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

WHEN THE BULLHEADS BITE

When the bullheads bite,
And the dragon-flies
Skim the lazy creek
Where the sly hook lies,
There's a freckled girl,
With a home-made pole;
There's a barefoot boy
By the swimming hole.

When the bullheads bite
In the shallow stream,
On the grassy bank
Where the daisies gleam,
There's another girl
Who has learned that bliss
Fills a quiet hour
On a day like this.

When the bullheads bite,
I would like to go,
With a bamboo pole
To that creek I know.
I would sit all day
On the bank and wish
(As I used to do!)
I could catch a fish!

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Aug. 23, 1927

Consignments of two new stamps issued by the United States government have been received at the local post office. The stamps commemorate the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of the surrender of General Burgoyne and the Battle of Bennington, both turning points in the Revolutionary war.

Mrs. J. W. Emmerson of San Diego, Calif., is visiting her sisters, Mrs W. H. Wilms of Neenah and Mrs. W. I. Masters of Menasha.

Mrs. A. E. Hanson and her daughter, Ardale, of Waupaca, drove to Stevens Point Friday evening to attend the concert given by Madame Schumann-Heink.

25 YEARS AGO

Aug. 27, 1912

John Proescher, 82, one of the oldest paper makers in the state, died Monday evening at his home on Mason street. He had been a resident of Appleton since 1878.

Miss Louise Erb, daughter of the late Dr. E. Erb, was to be married that evening to John H. Dietrich of Spokane Wash., at the home of the bride's sister at 430 College avenue. The Rev. J. L. Laruris of Neenah was to conduct the ceremony.

Miss Anna Wunderlich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Wunderich, 800 N. Division street, was married to Bernard Rindt of Sheboygan at St. Paul's Lutheran church.

D. P. Steinberg, secretary, was planning trips to Manitowoc and Portage to book attractions for the Fox River Valley fair.

J. T. Quinlan, manager of the Wisconsin Telephone company, announced that Greenville calls would remain on the Appleton exchange and would involve no toll charges.

PEACE! ISN'T IT WONDERFUL?

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

OXYGEN UNDER THE SKIN

From time to time we have told here about the subcutaneous injection of pure oxygen as an emergency measure in various desperate or alarming conditions. By means of a simple apparatus called the oxygenator, which every physician may carry in his bag, half a pint to a pint or more of pure nascent oxygen gas may be generated and injected in any case without fuss or delay, and often that much oxygen so injected is more efficacious, more quickly picked up by the blood than many gallons of oxygen administered by inhalation from a tank.

One intelligent reader who brought this to the attention of his physician, a prominent one (of course), elicited this response:

"That is probably another of Dr. Brady's peculiar notions. Oxygen can be administered only by inhalation. It might prove fatal if one were to inject it subcutaneously."

In the same mail with that letter came another from a physician who by the way, has achieved a wide reputation for his success in the ambulant or injection treatment of hernia. The physician says:

"By the way, I have been using oxygen subcutaneously for several years and have not had an attack of angina pectoris since I began taking the injections. In fact, after a long lay-off from house calls for several years, I am now making calls in the usual way and have used no medicines aside from the oxygen injections during this time."

Oh, well, doctors are funny that way.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Chalk Talk For Acid Dyspeptics

Thank you for suggesting chalk for ulcer of stomach. I used many pounds. Now have not used any for a year. No need for it. Started twelve years ago (ulcer). Sometimes had to rest a few days or weeks. No it never hinders me. Healing is a slow process. Habit of care must be developed. (H. R. S.)

Answer—Chalk, prepared chalk, precipitated chalk, calcium carbonate, is preferable to sodium bicarbonate, soda, saleratus, as an antacid because it does not disturb the acid-base balance in blood and tissues so much as does soda. Ten grains of calcium carbonate in powder or tablet form, will neutralize excessive acidity in stomach (whether from ulcer or other cause) for a few hours. Several doses a day may be taken if necessary, without harm. Convenient form to carry chalk is in tablets containing 5 grains each.

Baby Book

Am delighted with the instruction I have received from your fine Brady Better Baby Book. The "Yellow Kid Book," as my husband calls it, cost fifteen cents including postage and is worth ten times as much as ..... 's book on care of the baby, we think. Our baby is six months old and you would certainly enjoy seeing him go for banana . . . (Mrs H. V.)

Just one point not quite clear in the Brady Better Baby Book—please explain in other words what you mean by the term "top third." (Mrs. A. P. M.) Also whether that is the same as "upper third" and "top milk."

Answer—Glad to send copy of the lemon yellow baby book to any correspondent who asks for it and incloses ten cents coin and a stamped envelope bearing the correct address. Top milk, upper third, or top third is the same thing—it means the upper five and one-third ounces of milk from the pint bottle, carefully taken off with a milk dipper after the milk has stood several hours in a refrigerator or cold place to allow cream to rise. Every infant should receive ripe banana pulp from the age of four or five months.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, 265 El Camino, South, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Your Birthday

"VIRGO"

If August 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m., and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m., from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m., until midnight.

You may overlook the fact that you have your own pet aversions and unreasonably become offended this day because someone gives expression of a chief dislike. Be on your guard against a let-down of standards of conventional ideas regarding social usages this day. Too much informality might be construed as disrespect and bring about a quarrel. Whimsical ideas may prevail, making many people extremely sensitive and on the outlook for trouble. Accept no hastily made promise this day, for unforseen circumstances are apt to keep it from being fulfilled. Be very conservative in your statements, as well as actions because both might be subjected to criticism. This ought to be an auspicious day for transactions involving money, particularly in the conservative investment field. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are in love, may find this a favorable day to awaken interest in some cherished idea or suggestion.

If a woman and August 25 is your birthday, you must avoid doing things in a haphazard fashion. You may take your responsibilities too seriously. Do not, if you are wise, permit them to become burdensome. Restlessness might induce you to devote too much time to some outdoor activity, so be careful that trouble does not originate from this source. You will find it easy to get yourself into an irritated frame of mind, so your fight should be not to allow little things to exasperate you. It is important for you to have the right type of friends; so select them with care because they may mean a great deal to you in the future. In politics, journalism, art, music, acting, short story writing or the selling field you are likely to find very lucrative employment. Marital indications, for women born on this date, are very favorable, so there is very little chance of your married life not being a very happy one.

The child born on August 25 through popularity in its early teens, generally paves a way for a very successful career in either commercial artistic or literary activities.

If a man and August 25 is your natal day, if you learn that discretion is by far the better part than valor, your success in life is almost an assured fact. As a chemist, scientist, author, jurist, clergyman, artist or educator your achievements may be outstanding.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff:

Edna Ferber likes to write novels of American life while secluded in a Paris hotel. . . Muriel Kirkland once slapped her leading man's face because he made too ardent love to her during a scene on stage. . .

Among hundreds who turned up at the Astor to greet Ozzie Nelson the other night was Dave Franklin. . . Franklin is the composer who wrote "The Merry-Go-Round Broke Down," and "Dream Boat"—two outstanding hits. . . He looked happy and extremely well-fed. . . . Which must be a novelty for Franklin. . . For ten years before he "hit" he almost starved to death.

* * *

Toscanini always has two evergreen shrubs placed at each side of his door when he checks into his New York hotel. . . As long as attendants remember he has been doing this. . . Yet nobody knows why. . . . He refuses to discuss it, and even the servants at the hotel don't know why.

George Lottman's name for Hollywood is "Phoneyville-By-the-Sea." . . He insists everybody is so vain on the coast that even hash in the restaurants is served with a profile. . . The waiters never know when a director is looking at them.

Most of the guide books in New York are dull and statistical. . . There's not a single one with any life or color, most of them being content with listing buildings and streets, and tossing in a few uninspiring historical notes. . . Somebody with the right touch could make a lot of money out of this.

* * *

Actresses aren't content to remain untalked about. . . Not by any means. . . But they seldom go to the lengths to secure publicity resorted to by stars in the old days. . . . At least, you never hear of one giving a dinner with a beribboned pig as a guest of honor, as Ruth Urban did. . . Or of anyone keeping a baby lamb in her room, as Jean Stewart did, until the hotel management heard about it—and threw out the lamb. . . It landed, of course, on the front page.

There were tragic endings to some of those early publicity maneuvers. . . Myrna Darby, for instance, wanted a bronze sunburn to go with her blond hair. . . She died of sun poisoning. . .

The goofiest stunt ever put on was by Toodles Ryan. . . She paraded Fifth avenue in a bird-cage hat that contained several live canaries.

Almost as unserious was Jimmy Durante's explanation when he refused to let interior decorators rehabilitate his suite at a Broadway hotel, where he has stopped for years. "I was a tramp when I first moved in here," he announced, "and it's good enough for me now."

Dinner-Supper Party Held at Darboy Home

Darboy — Mr. and Mrs. John Dietzen, Sr., entertained at dinner and supper at their home on Wednesday for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schrieber and Mrs. Edward Schrieber Chicago, who spent the week with them. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tennie and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schafer, Appleton.

The Rev. Fred Bergs of Milwaukee was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Wittmann last Wednesday.

Lillian Seegers is spending several days at Greenville with Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Haase.

Sisters M. Thomasine, M. Immaculata, M. Alberta and M. Eleanor of St. Francis Convent Green Bay arrived here Friday and will have charge of Holy Angels school the coming school year. School will open next Monday.

Miss Blanche Hank of Hollywood, Calif., arrived here Wednesday to spend some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hank.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dietzler of Douglas, Wy., and Mrs. Mary Dietzler, Kaukauna, visited at the Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hartzheir home Wednesday.

John Wolsinger was a patient at St. Elizabeth hospital for several days last week where he suffered the amputation of part of his foot.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — That old relief headache has bobbed up again on capitol hill and seems to be digging in to welcome the congress back in January.

Congress and the relief problem are a little like the cranky mountaineer who peered out his cabin door at the mob of youngsters in the yard and shouted:

"Those o' you belong t' me, get in the house. And those o' you don't, git on home."

Congress is just that confused a father to the unemployed, although it has shoveled billions down the chute to them in the last four years.

Actually, the "unemployed" have never been defined. They were such a hungry lot in 1933 there was no time to do it, and it hasn't been done yet.

Is a widow who makes $4 a week embroidering doilies at home unemployed if she can't feed her brood on that $4? Is a youngster who was graduated in 1935 and never found a job unemployed? How unemployed is a man who gets $200 a year from a canning factory but can't make it stretch the whole 12 months, and can't find another job?

* * *

It's Nothing New

In the year ending June 30 WPA spent $1,899,069,166 on jobs for 1,656,533 people. More millions poured through the social security sieve to poverty-stricken blind, aged and children. Still more millions are keeping the CCC boys off the rattlers.

Yet every congressman's mail has pleas from people who can't find any government cash-register open to them, and can't find a job.

To make matters more complicated Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia keeps loudly demanding a balanced budget.

There's a faint hope on the hill that maybe relief bills could be cut if the relief problem could be reduced to a simple system. In the last few weeks several efforts in that direction have bobbed up to remind congress that "the poor, ye have always with you."

* * *

Census Proposed

Just a few weeks ago the newly named Associate Justice Hugo L. Black pushed through the senate a bill to take a census of the unemployed. He wants it "on or before" April 1, 1938. It is estimated the census would cost $5,000,000.

Immediately Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, who engineered the war draft, denounced the plan as clumsy and needlessly expensive. He wants all relief cases to register on a given day.

Then Johnson's argument was popped by trained relief workers. They say some people would register at four or five different places just to be sure they got relief.

There have been other congressional eruptions of the problem. In the house, Rep. Maury Maverick of Texas rounded up 28 others to sponsor a bill asking for an unemployment commission to investigate the whole subject of destitution and to report back when congress meets again.

In the senate an unemployment investigating committee is planning hearings in the fall. They will report when congress convenes again.

As a result the congressional bill-of-fare for 1938 bids fair to dish up relief. And with the 1938 elections around the corner that may look to congressmen like a sensible diet.

Free Acts Booked For New London's Labor Day Picnic

30 Parade Floats Entered By Merchants, Industries, Organizations

New London—Seven free acts of widely varied entertainment each day are only one of the big attractions offered by New London Labor organizations at their second annual Labor Day celebration which will be held at the Hatten Memorial park Sept. 4, 5 and 6. More and more features, attractions and entertainment are being added steadily as the general committee continues its work.

Included in the free acts are talent from far and near. Of special interest will be the appearance of the Renfro Valley Twins who now broadcast every Sunday over WTAQ. Lastyear they appeared on the labor day celebration program as the Liskow Sisters of Black Creek, Alice and Loretta. The Johnson Twins, Velva and Viola, of Waupaca are another radio pair who will perform. They are heard over WLBL.

Out-of-town troops include a Juvenile Kiddies act from Manitowoc starring five children and a man, and another Quintuplets Act from Manitowoc features four girls and a male artist. The Binks Circus troop of two performers from Cudahy will entertain with slack wire, trapeze and juggling performances. The Little German Band from Pennsylvania will provide free music continuously.

To Provide Rides

The committee has secured the services of a large show company which will import five rides, four shows and 20 concessions besides the offerings of the local labor organizations. The union has been granted all beverage rights on the grounds. . Acres of parking space are available and the public will be permitted to bring picnic lunches for meals with park facilities. The swimming pool also will be available.

Always a major attraction, the mamoth parade scheduled for sometime Monday has already 30 merchants, industrial and organizations' floats entered with many more anticipated. Prizes will be offered for winners in dozens of classes. Walter Fredericks is making all the arrangements.

Another bit of entertainment crowded into the whirl of events will be a girls softball game under the lights at the city ball park near by Sunday night. The Bumps Bowlby Candy girls of this city will match the Gordon Bent Sports of Green Bay.

All boys and girls under high school age may swim any morning free of charge while the afternoons and evenings will be available to any person who pays the admission charge of 10 cents.

No adults will be allowed in the morning during the children's period, the chairman said. The increased privileges were prompted largely by the great decrease in patronage at the pool during the current cool weather.

467 Students are Registered for High School Work

Enrolment at New London Shows Little Change From Last Year

New London — Student enrolment at Washington High school this year will vary little from 1936 according to registration figures compiled by Principal A. F. Christ yesterday. While only 110 freshmen registered last week more are expected before classes get far under way after Sept. 1. The average freshman enrolment the past several years has been 130.

The present total registration of 467 is an increase of only one student over the net enrolment of last year. A comparison of the two years' figures, 1937 and 1936 respectively, follows by classes: seniors 104, 103; juniors 124, 102; sophomores 129, 128; freshmen 110, 130.

New Drama Interest

Student interest in dramatics shows a marked increase over last year with 40 students taking the course this year as compared to 15, necessitating two classes this year. The increase is attributed to the enlarged facilities for teaching and practicing dramatics in the school and the installation of a National Thespian chapter last year. A slight increase in interest was shown in public speaking courses.

The book rental system in effect at the high school will enter its second year of operation this fall. In a report submitted by Superintendent H. H. Helms to the board of education, rental income amounting to $980 was turned over to the city treasurer last year. Of approximately 2,000 text books representing an investment of $3,200, only 12 books were reported missing at the end of the school term and the total charge to students for damage to books in their care amounted to $7.50. Students pay $2.50 at the beginning of the school term and $.50 is refunded when the books are returned in good condition.

No replacements are necessary this year but some new books have been added to the supply. The system is planned to be self-sustaining. Books are distributed entirely free of charge in the grade schools and any damage to the texts is collected at the end of the year.

City Petitions For New Bridge On Pearl Street

New London Council Authorizes Request to State Highway Commission

New London—A petition to the state highway department for a new Pearl street bridge over the Wolf river was authorized by the common council at a special meeting at the city hall last night.

The petition was presented to the highway commission at Madison today by a delegation of New London officials who went to confer on the floodway problem. If the petition proves successful, subsequent hearings will be held by the highway department in this city.

The city is seeking a new structure entirely at government expense. The mayor's signature was authorized on all routine papers in connection with the investigation proceedings.

Complaints against the present 295-foot span are that it is too narrow for traffic and has become too weekened to handle heavy truck traffic which must be routed over the Door street bridge. An emergency necessitating the use of the bridge for all traffic would be disastrous, the petition declared, and even the newer Dorr street bridge is too narrow to handle heavy auto and truck traffic. The Pearl street bridge was described badly in need of repairs. The gross weight limit ordered by the state is seven tons.

Discuss Fieldhouse

Following the council meeting, members of the city park board and trustees of the Hatten Memorial park donation fund met in the council chambers and discussed plans and specifications for a fieldhouse at the park. Preliminaries of the project are being rushed so that work will be available at the park.

The joint committee last night concerned itself largely with determining the needs of the community with such a building and planning a type which would prove useful and practical at moderate cost for materials and outlay with litle or no upkeep and operation expense.

Plans were presented and described by Robert M. Connelly of Appleton, New London city engineer. Entering in the discussion last night were Mayor E. W. Wendlandt, Aldermen Harold Pieper, William Litts and Otto Stern; H. H. Helms and E. H. Smith of the school board; A. E. Morse, Leslie Freeman and C. D. Feathers, trustees of the Hatten fund, and F. A. Jennings, superintendent of the city park project.

Golfers Outline Jamboree Program

All-Day Program to Begin Thursday Morning on Springvale Course

New London—With reservations pouring in from this vicinity and all sections of the state, the New London Golf club is preparing for a golf jamboree at the Springvale course a mile north of the city. The activities will begin at 10 o'clock Thursday morning and continue all day and into the night.

Stunts and contests will feature the days playing with about 50 prizes being donated by merchants and professional men to reward the least of the winners. The course has been improved and is in excellent shape for the nine holes of regular golf which will start the circuit. The second nine holes will be crazier than any which any golfer may have negotiated before, according to members of the committee.

The jamboree is open to all golfers without restriction and lunch and refreshments will be served on the grounds.

Mr. Cox presened a condensed discussion of the committee's report to the state senate on its findings. The speaker stressed the fact that most institutions are overcrowded and told of the welfare work being done and improvements which are contemplated.

New London Game Club to Get Pheasant Allotment

New London — There'll be no problem of raising young pheasant chicks for the New London Fish and Game club this year as originally planned by the club, only the problem of stocking them according to information given to M. J. Heinz, president, by George Hadland, Waupaca county conservation warden.

Reports received from the state farm at Poynette, indicate the state will raise the birds and present the New London club with four or five hundred full or nearly full grown birds for disposal in this vicinity. According to the game warden the shipment of birds may be expected any time between the present and several days before the opening of the hunting season on Oct. 23.

Just where the birds will be released has not been definitely decided. President Heinz favors stocking the marshes around Colie's slough down the Wolf river but a meeting of the board of directors will be held and possibly a meeting of the club before the birds arrive here. Suggestions from sportsmen and club members will be considered.

Efforts to stock pheasants in this region the past several years have proven more or less unsuccessful. Killing the birds out of season is believed the greatest cause for the scarcity but indications are that the violations are decreasing.

They escaped with minor bruises and scratches. Burns, who was on probation, was turned over to a parole officer, last evening.

BOOK REVIEW

Noel Coward's Autobiography Full of Humor, Pathos, Honesty

By Jean Wiley Thickens

"PRESENT INDICATIVE" by Noel Coward.

After reading "Present Indicative" by Noel Coward one is left with two distinct impressions: that there might perhaps be a little less of the first person singular, even for an autobiography, and secondly the fact that the author is straining a bit to conceal his intense satisfaction at his meteoric rise to fame and fortune. In spite of these two minor defects, his life story is a very human document, full of humor, pathos and astonishing honesty. He makes no effort to conceal his humble beginnings. And who would not be somewhat overcome to have experienced in twenty-one years, such a dazzling ascension from poverty-stricken little boy playing bit parts in childrens' pantomimes to his present eminence as England's foremost playwright and actor.

Throughout his biography it is apparent that two dominating impulses are constantly driving this clever and gifted young man (for he is still under forty) his determination to climb to the top rung of the theatrical ladder, and his passionate gratitude to his mother for her innumerable sacrifices on the altar of her son's success. In appearance Noel resembles his father, a well-meaning incompetent, who spends his days modeling toy sail boats. His mother, with iron in her soul, runs a theatrical boarding-house with the aid of "aunty Vida" and one small Cockney servant girl. "Aunty Vida," in vulgar parlance, is "shy a few marbles" and so contributes little toward the scheme of things, as she has to be guided and disciplined like the child she mentally is. Noel Coward describes vividly the ramshackle old frame house with the leaky plumbing, the hot water heater that is forever blowing up, the smells which eminate from the kitchen on sultry Summer days, the family tragedy when some boarder decamps without paying his bill, and the ceaseless struggle to make ends meet.

With his first success money Coward purchases for his courageous and overworked mother a small, shabby cottage in the country outside of London. Leaving aunty Vida and pappa Coward to carry on as best they can with the domestic problems in London, Mrs. Coward and her son retire to their small and peaceful haven. Here Noel writes furiously while his mother attends to their simple household duties, lies in the sun and chats with the friendly villagers.

When success finally does come to Noel Coward people to whom he had previously appealed in vain, begin to cultivate him. Invitations to country-house parties from designing mammas of marriageable daughters appear in every mail. Noel affects hand-tailored silk shirts and has himself photographed in bed, arrayed in loud satin lounging—pajamas. The public, the press and theatrical producers in England and America beslege him for new plays and musical comedies. The flavor of success is sweet to his palate. But in this effulgence of which he is the nucleus, he does not forget those who always believed in him and his eventual success. He relates with sorry humor his humble appeal for a loan to Lynn Fontanne when his mother's boarding house is about to pass to other hands because of unpaid taxes. He describes vividly his lonely half starved days in New York sitting disconsolately on a park bench in Washington Square, wondering if anyone would invite him for dinner; and the many weeks he slept on a lumpy couch in an empty studio in Greenwich Village while he waited anxiously for the Schuberts to decide the fate of two plays he had submitted to them. The book is full of anecdotes and rich in portraits of theatrical stars. The Lunts, Gertrude Lawrence, Katherine Cornell, Peggy Wood, Gilbert Miller and innumerable others in this galaxy of luminaries enliven the pages. The book is witty, amusing and sophisticated, and has the hard gloss which is the result of his bitter early struggles.

Mr. Rightor will give spectators a description of the bottom of the lake through a broadcast system. A microphone will be installed in the helmet.

Other events on the program will include a miniature sailboat race at 1:30 in the afternoon. The feature event will be canoe tilting contests at 2 o'clock in which any person residing in the Winnebago-land area is eligible to enter providing he can obtain a canoe, paddles, tilting pole and a partner. A 1-mile row boat race will follow, the race to be held at the mouth of the river. The final event of the afternoon will be a tub race.

Expect 50 in Derby

The big headlining event will be the national rowboat race which will start at Winneconne in which 50 contestants are expected to compete in the 24-mile pull through the waters of the Wolf, Fox and Lake Winnebago.

The finish of the race is expected to be around 5 o'clock in the afternoon with the starting gun about 10:30 in the morning.

Committee members will meet tonight and Wednesday morning to give definite assignments to members of the club for conducting the celebration. Tonight the committees meet at Richter as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Al. C. Hidde and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bricknell. The group in charge of the celebration will attend a breakfast at 7:30 Wednesday morning at the Valley Inn.

Father Starts Action For Custody of Child

Neenah — Lyall Stilp, Neenah, who was a defendant in a divorce action more than four years ago, is seeking custody of the minor child, now living with her mother, Marion Stilp, in Milwaukee.

Stilp started action to gain custody of his young daughter in Winnebago county court Monday.

Testimony was taken for two hours before attorneys were ordered to prepare briefs on the case. Frank B. Keefe, attorney for Stilp, informed the court he would submit his brief this week, while Morris Podell, Milwaukee, attorney for Mrs. Stilp, was given 10 days in which to reply.

Stilp asked that the custody of the child be changed on the grounds that his former wife is not a fit person to care for the minor girl. Mrs. Stilp is putting up a defense to retain the child. The girl was originally placed in her custody at the time of the divorce, March 31, 1933.

Reviews History Of Constitution In Lions Club Talk

Fink Urges Members to Study Background, Provisions of Document

Menasha—R. J. Fink, Menasha attorney, reviewed the history of the United States constitution and urged his listeners to become familiar with its background and provisions in a talk before the Menasha Lions club at the Memorial building yesterday noon.

Fink, has been appointed by Mayor Walter E. Held as a member of the committee which will plan this city's observance of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the constitution which will start Sept. 13.

The attorney described the Philadelphia convention in 1787 at which delegates decided to remedy the defects in the articles of confederation and finally, after a year of study, bickering, and compromise, drew up the constitution. It was to settle differences that came up between delegates in that convention that the United States has two houses, Fink said, the Senate in which the representation is the same, for all states and the House of Representatives in which it is based on population.

Ben Laird, a member of the Appleton Lions club, presented the Menasha Lions with the golf trophy won recently in the district 27-B tournament held in Appleton. The trophy is a traveling prize which will belong permanently to the team that wins it three years in succession.

The Lions discussed the coming bowling season and elected Harold Berro as captain. He will select a team and the league in which the Lions will compete.

Defense Fund Is Sought by Union

Teachers' Federation Prepares to Fight Alleged Discrimination

Madison—(AP)—The American Federation of Teachers' committee on academic freedom considered appeals today for a larger defense fund after receiving reports of widespread cases of alleged discrimination against members.

Various local units, in reports presented late yesterday and last night, told of dismissals and salary reductions they attributed to school boards' opposition to unionization of teachers.

In one case, that of Victor Jewett of Eureka, Calif., Vice President Harry Steinmetz, of San Diego, Calif., asked an appropriation of at least $500 to carry the matter to the United States Supreme court. The California Supreme court has upheld Jewett's dismissal on charges of "unprofessional conduct" by the Eureka school board.

Steinmetz said Jewett was charged with "criticizing the form of government and extolling alleged virtues of the government of soviet Russia." Steinmetz declared the facts were that "several pupils were coached to say Jewett called the five-year plan better than the United States constitution," and that Jewett's interest in the success of a lumber strike was the real reason for the discharge.

E. C. De Briae of Milwaukee reported on two Wisconsin cases. He said charges filed against two Milwaukee vocational school teachers —Colin Welles, president of the state federation of teachers, and Ira Pilliard, president of the federation local—were the result of their request for an investigation of salary schedules. Children's day "statistics" listed 30 youngsters lost and 30 later returned to their anxious parents or adult companions.

Figures Reveal Drought Doesn't Lower Population

Census Figures Always Rise But Boost Is Slowed Sometimes

In a recent study of conditions affecting life in the Great Plains region of the United States Dr. Frederic E. Clements and Dr. Ralph W. Chaney of the Plant Biology Division of the Carnegie Institution of Washington discuss the advance and retreat of settlement in the region as affected by changes in climatic conditions. The facts relating to this matter, as brought out in this study, recently published by Carnegia Institution, follow:

"The census figures for the Central region, i. e., Kansas and Nebraska, show a continuous rise in population since the beginning of settlement, and the recession due to drought is reflected only by a slowing of the rate. These consequences flow in part from the smoothing effect of the decade, but chiefly from the fact that increase in the older humid sections more than counterbalanced the sudden drops in the newer semi-arid ones.

All Different

"Moreover, each of the great droughts from 1860 to 1935 fell in a different situation, and its economic and social effects were correspondingly dissimilar. Thus, the drought period of 1860 in Nebraska found barely 30,000 pioneers settled on the choicest lands at a time when civil strife rendered desettlement all but impossible.

"The 120,000 people in the state at 1870 were still largely imbued with the pioneer spirit and inured to hardship; furthermore, they were in possession of fertile farms under an average rainfall mostly more than 25 inches. Then the population increased threefold during the next decade; and this was doubled by 1890, with the result that the semi-arid sandhills and plateaus to the west were entirely parcelled out into homesteads and timber claims.

"When the drought of 1893-96 struck these, the exodus from such regions was practically complete, and this was reflected by a rise of 4000 in population by contrast with 600,000 for the previous decennium. It is reported that 18,000 prairie schooners rolled eastward across the Missouri River at Omaha in a single year, and perhaps a half-million people withdrew from the long frontier during the three years of drought and famine.

"The rainfall deficit of 1917-18 was likewise one of the greatest on record, but it coincided with the extraordinary demand for food and materials caused by war, and the recession in consequence was slight.

"This was followed by the drought and dust-storms of 1933-35, the effects of which still exhibit a high visibility in national problems and policies. Under the conditions of the early 'nineties,' the abandonment of the dry regions would doubtless have exceeded that of any previous crisis, but a new social doctrine intervened to forestall the usual consequences."

Recollections Of Appletonians And Others

But This Time Modern Instead of Ancient Ones

BY EDWARD P. HUMPHREY

Hollywood, Calif.—As some who will read this know, I have just returned to California from a visit to Appleton, the first in twelve years. I went back to Appleton fearing I might be almost or altogether forgotten, for Hollywood well knows that to be out of sight usually means to be out of mind. And indeed there were many old friends whose faces I did not see, but the reason was they had moved on to fresh fields and pastures new beyond this world's ken. But those who were left received me like a prodigal son, killing the fatted calf and serving it up with fanciest trimmings. In this connection I would like to say that considering the extraordinary toothsomeness of the food prevalent in Appleton, it is a mystery to me how Appletonians escape extreme corpulence. It must be they possess capabilities of self-restraint and resources of self-denial commensurate with the terrific need. I was amazed and gratified that so many people, (some I did not recognize stopping me on the street to tell me) spoke of having read with interest my "Recollections" in the past, and since getting home again it has occurred to me that I might write another story dealing with "Recollections" less archaic than previous ones. They would be "Recollections" too, more's now the pity!

Wisconsin's Glories

And right here at the beginning I want to say I never saw Appleton and its environs more lovely than they were during June and the first half of July when I was there. Vegetation of all kinds was as lush as in California during the Spring months when things are at their best. We have some nice trees in California, our peppers, eucalyptuses and live oaks (I don't care so much for the palms)—but O you Wisconsin elms., I make adoration to you! Is there a more lovely tree in the world than a symmetrical elm standing alone in a green field? And then your patches of woods everywhere thru the country! How cool and sweet they are! We haven't t'em here in Southern California. And your rivers and lakes! How I love them! We haven't them here. Of course we have other things, but not them. In the cities and towns and even to a certain extent in the farming communities, a dozen years bring great changes, so that when a person goes back as I did, he hardly knows his way about and feels almost a stranger in a strange land. But when he sees the Fox, the Wolf, Lake Winnebago, Lake Buttes des Morts and Lake Poygan, he finds himself on "solid ground" again! In the midst of changes everywhere else, these dear members of Nature's family are still as of old! How restful and comforting to gaze upon their serene countenances and recall treasured memories of long-ago association! It makes one who has traveled a long way along life's road feel as tho Time after all had stood still or had carried him back to youth and early manhood! Do you wonder that my favorite drives were along the river roads on each side to De-Pere and Green Bay, along the lake road to Stockbridge and Brothertown, along the roads bordering the river and Lake Winnebago at Menasha and Neenah, and the road along the Upper Fox from Oshkosh to Buttes des Morts village, Winneconne, Tustin and Fremont? Many a time and oft I took them, each time if possible with greater joy than before! And this recalls a pleasant incident. Craving to stand once more on Stroebe's Island, the scene of happy picnics many years ago, I drove across the causeway leading to the Island and obeyed the hand pointing to Harry Stroebe's resort. Leaving the car below I climbed the gentle slope to the brow of the bluff, where I sat for a time on a convenient bench and let my eyes travel meditatively up and down the river from the Menasha lock and railway bridge to "the Rogers farm." Reluctantly at last I rose and wended my way back by way of the resort building. As I approached the screened porch a hearty voice exclaimed: "Well, if here isn't Edward Humphrey!" and there was Harry himself inviting me to tarry awhile and introducing me to his wife, whose face it seemed to me, in contour and expression, might well have been the model for Raphael's Madonna del Gran Duca. To me a remarkable thing was that Harry said he had not seen me before since the day when "I. G." of beloved memory, Elizabeth Woodward and I pulled three girls out of the river just off the Island from an overturned sailboat—and that was twenty-five years ago! Time standing still again!

Cambria's Last Voyage

One day I asked John Stevens what had become of the steam yacht Cambria, and he said it was resting at the bottom of Lake Michigan. John the elder gave the boat to John the younger, and the time came finally when it was presented as a gift to the Salvation Army. After many vicissitudes it came to the lowly estate of freighting apples across the Lake between the east and west shores, a hundred barrels at a trip. One day with a good sea running, the main steam pipe between the boiler and engines broke, and as the boiler carried 225 pounds of steam something was doing immediately. The engineer was scalded to death and the boat fell off into the trough of the sea and foundered. The rest of the crew of a half dozen men got into a small boat and were soon picked up. Thus perished a craft on which many people from Appleton and nearby communities had enjoyed delightful hours.

Appleton's First Auto

My remembrance was that Dr. J. S. Reeve's Duryea, was the first automobile in Appleton, tho I "would not take oath to it." One day I asked the doctor how he came to get it. He said somewhere about 1900 he went to Peoria to visit Dr. John Faville, and while there became acquainted with a brother of Inventor Duryea who designed and built the Duryea car. This brother had this Duryea car and wanted to sell it, as he was planning going back East, and offered it to Dr. Reeve for $450. The doctor went out for a ride in the car and it "ran fine," much better than it did when it finally got to Appleton, where the configuration of the country or the kinds of gasoline and air on tap or more probably the idiosyncrasies of its vibrating spark coils put it "on the blink" a good share of the time. This reference to an automobile tempts me to tell a story of an amazing circumstance that happened during one of our early visits to California. We were driving along in the car somewhere when I noticed the license plate on the car ahead of us and could not believe my eyes! The figures were "467-547," the first three being the number of our home telephone in Appleton and the last three the street number (under the old numbering system) of our home in Appleton! It would be interesting for some mathematician to compute how many billion chances there were against those numbers appearing in that order—and the number of chances against our seeing that license plate out of the more than a million at that time on California roads!

More About Good Eating

I got a blow at Winneconne and another at Tustin on my first visits there, where I found the glory of the old eating places had departed. "I. G." and I along with many other Appleton people used to go to the Elmtree Inn at Winneconne when it was run by Mr. and Mrs. Klaus, afterwards passing to the management of Col. and Mrs. Watkins. In the Fall Mr. Klaus took time off frequently from making the lumbermen's boots, for which he was famous, to paddle his hunting skiff thru the rice beds and pick up teal, mallards and red heads, which Mrs. Klaus and daughter Ida, who were marvelous cooks turned into gastronomic delicacies fit for the denizens of Mt. Olympus. The son Fred Klaus still lives a few houses away on the up-river side of the old Elmtree, and Ida, now Mrs. Miller, lives similarly on the down-river side. I saw them both for a few pleasant minutes. Afterwards the Elmtree Inn passed to Col. and Mrs. Watkins, both now dead, and the colonel filled it with a store of beautiful books, pictures, china and furniture, handed down to him from a well to do and artistic Milwaukee relative. Mrs. Watkins was a devotee of the health fad recently revived in some swanky Eastern society circles of walking barefooted thru dewy grass at early morning. This was before the present sunsuit fad was thought of, and by comparison seems like a very pitiful runner-up. The delightful E. G. Jackson home in the old days adjoined the Elmtree Inn and was often a place of rest and refreshment to us after a trip up in our boat. The house and grounds are still there but Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and their son Harvey all are now sleeping, awaiting the arousing blast of Gabriel's trumpet. At Tustin I looked for the Lake House, where Mrs. Drummer, another marvelous cook, used to make the dining table groan with ducks, sturgeon, all sorts of real "garden vegetables" and hot breads and pastries till one "couldn't rest!" But I could find it nowhere and three old gentlemen sitting on a screened porch apparently with no urgent business on hand, informed me the Lake House many years ago had been victim to the fire demon. The first time we went to the Lake House was so long ago that we went in the late Charles W. Howard's naphtha launch, that small open vessel propelled by a motor the forerunner of the internal combustion motor, wherein a boiler containing gasoline instead of water made "steam" (high-pressure gasoline vapor) by a gasoline fire beneath, which operated an ordinary reciprocating engine. This sounds very dangerous, but actually accidents were very few if any at all. Afterwards we used to go to Oshkosh, take the Steamer Paul L. early in the afternoon for Tustin, where the steamer lay over night, starting back to Oshkosh at 5 o'clock in the morning, when by taking the Interurban I could be at the office by 9 o'clock. Then there were the drowsy, Epicurean week ends at the Lake House, whose hard beds in those youthful days didn't matter. Now the Lake House is gone, the Paul L. is gone, even the dock is gone, but lovely Poygan still voluptuously stirs and murmurs just at it did half a lifetime ago!

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—One of the things I want to ask Mr. Dale Carnegie, the people-influencer, is how to get movie stars to cry on my shoulder and open up.

Oh, they'll talk all right. Joan Blondell and Pat O'Brien will tell anybody about their respective offspring, and Clark Gable will talk about hosses and dawgs, and Leslie Howard will talk, and very intelligently, about almost anything. If the ads were true, even Garbo talks. But that's not what I mean. I mean really talk and reveal their souls, the way they do to fan mag writers.

Thumb through any old copy of a fan mag and you'll get the point. That's what I've been doing and this is the kind of soul-opening conversation I hope to bump into sometime:

Here's How It Goes

Charles Boyer, chatting on a set with Bette Davis, Paul Muni and Kay Francis, will start the ball rolling. He'll say pensively: "I remember so perfectly the little twilit parlor and the way my mother looked as she sat there, serene, in her high-backed chair by the window, a bit of sewing in her hands. . . ."

Kay won't hear. "I think, on the whole," she says, "we're becoming a race of modern Amazons. I think we're losing the courtesy and respect of men and it is strictly our own fault."

Bette will sigh: "The most intoxicating thing in Hollywood isn't the liquor but the flattery. That isn't original but it's true."

Paul Muni will sigh, too: "I am not a dreamer, not an idealist to the extent that I have left my wife and myself unprepared for contingencies."

Such Big Words!

"Contingencies," contributes Boyer. "That reminds me. My first steps in the world were completely divorced from anything theatrical. My baby ears were attuned, not to the grandiloquent words of mummers, but to the whir of machinery coming from the small industrial factory next door."

"How true," says Kay Francis sweetly. "Men need the inspiration of chivalry. Take that away and you have undermined civilization itself."

Miss Davis is perturbed: "A speculation that scares me and makes me glad to have severe critics watching me is this—do those who get elephantiasis of the ego ever realize that the malady is creeping upon them?"

Boyer reminisces: "We were the three musketeers of mummery. . . ."

To Me, They Won't Talk

"We can laugh at it in retrospect," puts in Miss Francis, "yet the oath of knighthood was one of the greatest stabilizers the world has ever known. . . ."

"I think," says Bette Davis, "they'd have periods of lucidity when they would see what was happening and recoil from it in shame and fright. But who knows?"

Parents Err in Keeping Sex Knowledge From Youth

BY ANGELO PATRI

Girls of sixteen are old enough to enjoy attending parties. They are interested in boys and the boys are not exactly turning their backs on the girls. This is quite as it ought to be, and there is no real reason why the girls should not enjoy the company of the boys at family dances, school dances and what other affairs their parents arrange for them. The school dances are given under the supervision of the teachers and certainly there should be no reason for the girls' not attending them.

Dancing is a sex play. We will get that over with right away. There is no fun in dancing with another girl, or with another boy. It must be boy and girl or it's no good. We will acknowledge this and so justify the fears that some parents hold. "How do I know what goes on at these dances? I've heard tales. I'm responsible for my daughter, nobody else, and I'm not going to take any chances."

The chances are going to be taken nevertheless because girls are girls and boys are boys in their nature and nothing anybody can do will change that. There is just as much chance of a boy and girl mistake at one hour of the day as at another, IF that boy and girl are so minded. The best insurance against such mistakes is education and training and experience.

This should begin early. Boys and girls should be taught the simple sex truths as early as they indicate power to accept them. Gradually this instruction should be broadened until by the time the young person is matured he is in full possession of the facts of life. The girls and boys should work and play together so that their experiences with each other prepare them for the future experiences of adolescence and maturity. Ignorance is not innocence. Sex is no crime. It is a function of the healthy human body, one of the highest and most important functions. Its health and its proper use is all important to the career of the young person. Parents cannot discharge their obligations to their children by keeping them in ignorance of the facts of sex and locking them up to prevent their learning from the others. That is the certain road to failure. And it is cruel as well as stupid.

When the sixteen-year-old girl asks to go to the dance with the boy friend the answer should be Yes. If the parent has neglected his duty and so thinks that the child is too ignorant of the implications of the dance engagement, too weak to support herself, or himself, in the situation, that is too bad for him as well as the child, and the thing to do is to make good on the education and training of the child as soon as possible and get out of his way.

Yes, such dances are to be chaperoned. They are to be held under conditions that will lead to courteous observance of conventions. The rules of good manners are to be strictly enforced, and the more formality about them the better. Beginners must always hold strictly to the rules. There is always a right way and this is the time to indicate it.

Prohibition will not work. Don't try it. A sixteen-year-old child is already well on his way from home to heaven, the heaven of self-direction, self-help, self expression and full maturity.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Adventures of a Missionary

II—ALONE ON AN ISLAND

The Reverend Henry reached the island shore in the afternoon. Finding a little bay, a few hundred feet wide, he entered it and landed on the steep, stony beach.

The Boat Had Swung Around To The Beach.

Feeling very tired, he decided to anchor his boat, then sleep on the beach. Next day, if the wind was right he could sail back toward New Zealand.

Pushing the boat a short distance out, he put down the stone anchor. Then he carried a long rope to a tree and tied it there. Feeling all would be safe when he awoke, he rolled up in two blankets taken from the boat, and went to sleep.

A thumping, grating sound awoke him from his slumber. He rubbed his eyes, and looked about him. The moon was shining brightly and the sky was quite clear. In a moment he found that the noise was being made by his boat bumping against the rocky beach. The stone in the anchor had slipped from its noose, and the boat had swung around.

The wind had become fresh, and the minister decided to row his boat to the other side of the small bay. He saw a place where the bay was indented, and believed the boat would rest quietly there. When he was just about in the middle of the bay, a huge wave came rolling in. It was so powerful that it caught up the boat, turned it over, and hurled it upon the shore. A hole was torn in the bottom when it struck a sharp rock, and one side was also broken in.

Bruised and half-choked with water, the man rose to his feet. He had clung to a seat in the boat while it was turning over, and had escaped with his life. Almost everything else was gone, however. The fish and his fishing tackle had been lost. His boat was ruined. A pocket knife, a pair of blankets, and a wrecked sailboat were all he could count as his own.

For a time, he sat on a rock, cold, wet, and sad. Then he noticed there were some oysters around the rocks in the shallow waters of the beach. Feeling hungry, he gathered some of them, and enjoyed them very much.

Food is of great importance to people who are ship-wrecked or marooned, but there is something else even more necessary. A person may live for weeks without a bite to eat, but he will die in a few days without water, or food which contains a good deal of water.

Henry wondered whether the island could supply him with anything to drink. Hearing a sound like that of running water, he walked toward it.

Psychic Overcalls May Get Player in Trouble

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I am sending you a hand which doesn't illustrate a thing except the fallibility of probability and the strain to which a hand of bridge, without being spectacular, can subject the air of easy friendliness that should pervade a Victorian Vermont living room where a few rubbers are being played at a fortieth of a cent a point.

"North and South were vulnerable. North dealt and opened with one heart. (This, I warn you, is a thoroughly immoral tale; the protagonists of evil, in the form of bad bidding, come to a good end, temporarily. In a sequel I may be able to show that pride went before a terrific fall.) After all, North figured, he had both majors, a singleton, and a $2 ticket to win on Grandpa's Boy, which had come in that afternoon at Suffolk Downs for $19.20.

"East, who had a bad cold and who gets, I think, a keener emotional thrill from a psychic bid than she has had from anything connected with cards since she last played military whist, bid two spade.

"South myself, both victor and villain of the piece, strongly suspecting East's bid, but not my partner's, bid two no trump.

"West, a charming Christian woman ordinarily, who becomes a reincarnation of Becky Sharp the minute she sits down to a bridge table, passed with a piteous sigh that purported to disclose her bitter regret at holding worthless cards in a crisis.

"North, partly because he was born that way and partly because he remembered that he'd forgotten to bring in the lawn chairs, bid three no trump.

"West at this point took off her mask and, with a very ungenteel leer, doubled. Rightly disregarding her partner's bid, she opened with the two of diamonds. By playing East for a complete bust, a blank in hearts, and six or seven spades to the jack, I made three no trump. I think I am right in saying that North and South can make three no trump on the hands against any defense.

"Soon after that West, the hostess back in character, gave us some sandwiches and fudge cake with whipped cream and iced coffee, and we all agreed that we must play again soon.

"Yours truly,
"C. B., Montpelier, Vt."

My correspondent's sprightly comments need no elaboration. It must have been quite a shock to Becky Sharp (reincarnated) for the opponents to have romped home with their three no trump contract against her comparative powerhouse and her partner's spade bid. On the face of it West had at least five taking tricks, but the trouble was that she couldn't get rid of the lead often enough to cash them in. The moral, if any, is that psychic overcalls, such as East's, rarely come to a good end.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Question: Please advise the correct call for South at point indicated below. The bidding was:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

South's hand:
♠ K 5 2 ♥ Q 8 5 ♦ J 6 3 ♣ Q 10 4 2

Answer: South should bid three no trump.

JO-JOTTE POINTER

In ruffing, use a high trump unless you are sure that you will be able to win tricks with all your high trumps later. If you have 9-8 of trumps and a suit is led which you must trump, use the nine. Otherwise it may fall on the jack of trumps later and you will have lost 15 points. The same is true with the ace or ten of trumps. If you can ruff with an intermediate trump and retain a guard for your high trump, the situation is different. With 9-Q-8 of trumps, you may ruff with the queen, for you count five points for the queen and your nine is still guarded.

New Hat Is Fall Tonic, Says Expert

BY ELSIE PIERCE

PERHAPS, like at least half the world of women, you are right ready to say "farewell to summer"

Just about this time of the year, those who have only fleeting memories left, of an all-too-short, two-weeks vacation, suddenly begin to suffer from the twixt-season doldrums.

Fall Tonics

In the spring there's the famous sulphur and molasses, and literally or figuratively one takes a tonic, does some spring cleaning, falls in love, revels in the beauties of nature and finds some excuse for being happy and wanting to be beautiful. In the fall there are still the beauties of nature — leaves changing to russet and coppery tones, a serene sort of beauty. But snapping out of the doldrums is just a little harder. One has a longer time to wait for "next vacation" (a thought which always serves to perk one up, it seems to me.)

But, there are fall tonics. The proverbial new hat, for instance, which they say is enough to send a woman's spirits soaring. The high turban is climbing to dizzy heights which should help the elated feeling quite a bit.

With the new hat I'd recommend a new hairdo . . . another tonic that is invariably successful.

I'd also recommend a visit to one's favorite beauty salon the first day back in town—yes, even before the first item of one's fall wardrobe is planned or purchased. A general going over from head to fingertips is the finest tonic of them all. Steal from the fall wardrobe budget if you have to for just the one "swell start" visit. Or, if you really feel that you cannot afford it, have a complete secret session with beauty in your own home. Devote several hours of several evenings to the task. Give yourself the thorough sort of a shampoo you haven't had since last spring, followed by a rinse, and set your own hair, wearing a net over it and allowing it to dry naturally. Give yourself a facial: molding and patting, coaxing and soothing every inch of the way. Finish with a good manicure.

A week of such beauty sessions and I'm sure you'll find renewed interest and zest in things. The twixt season doldrums will be replaced by new season enthusiasm and you'll find yourself facing the new fashions with that much more zest and loveliness.

I have several bulletins that may be of interest to you. Check them off and please send a self-addressed stamped (3-cent) envelope for each one. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

WHEN WE GO VISITING

Dear Mrs. Post: My son has been invited again this summer to spend two weeks at the summer cottage of his school friend. I have never met this family as they move in an entirely different social circle. But they are always so good to my boy and always make his vacations so happy. In fact, otherwise he would have none as we can't let our children go off spending money on holidays. These invitations go on and on and we have never returned any of them because we felt that there was nothing we could do. Perhaps there is something my boy could take for the other mother or something that I could do even though a stranger to her? My innate wish has always been to know what to do to show how much her kindness means to me.

Answer: It is plain that if these friends of your son were not really fond of him, and if his visit did not really give their son (as well as themselves) pleasure, they would not so regularly continue to invite him. A note of appreciation from you to "the other mother" would of course be very welcome, since it would give her pleasure to know that your boy really enjoys staying with her. Anything further than this is really not necessary—in fact a present of any value would, I am sure, embarrass her very much if, as I am supposing, she is in far better financial circumstances than you.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: Earlier in the summer I stopped over with a friend for a few days before continuing my journey east across the country. I have meant to send her a little present ever since but either I can't find any stores when I have time, or I haven't time to look for anything. She never answered the note I sent her the week following my visit and I'm wondering if I have seemed unappreciative in not sending a present. Is it too late to get one off to her now?

Answer: While every visitor must write a note of thanks, known as a bread and butter letter, to a hostess with whom she has been staying, no hostess is expected to answer a letter of thanks, ever. It is not necessary or even customary to send a present after a visit but there is no reason why you should not send one if you want to.

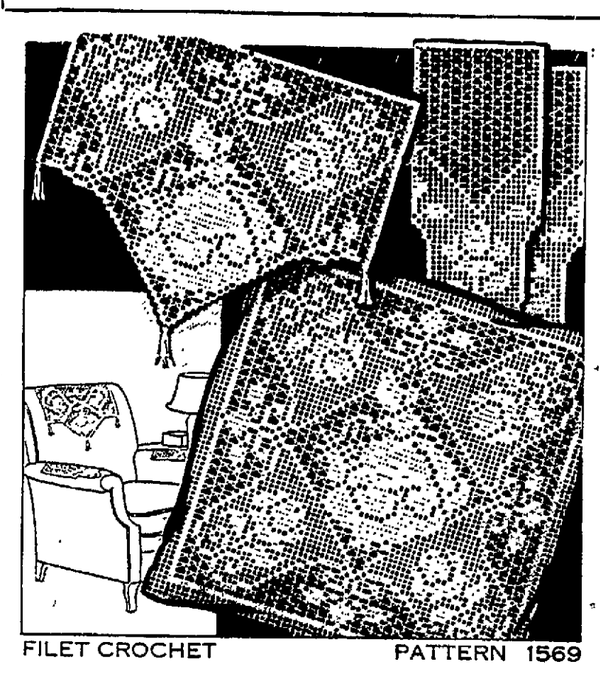

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going abroad shortly and staying for several weeks in a town in which neighbors of mine have relatives. These people insist that I must look up their relatives, which would of course be ideal from my point of view. But wouldn't "looking them up" be tantamount to making them obligated to do something for me? If not, just how should I go about making myself known?

Answer: Properly, your neighbors should give you a very short note—perhaps merely a message on their visiting card which announces your arrival in their community. In addition to this they should write a letter to their relatives telling them about you and that you will be arriving at approximately such and such a time in their neighborhood. Then when you arrive, you mail the short note and give the address where you are staying. The only objection to a letter of introduction is that it really obligates those who receive it to show what hospitality they can. If on the other hand they write no message and give you no letter of introduction, you are put in the very uncomfortable position of having, as it were, to force yourself upon strangers. Sometimes with certain people this may be quite all right, but at other times it may not.

Generally Plain-Faced Girl Makes Best Wife

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am sufficiently practical to believe that a man should choose a wife whose physical qualifications give same assurance that she can be the mother of reasonably strong and healthy children. I believe, too, that he should choose a wife whose looks are such that he would never be humiliated by her appearance. On the other hand, there are other desirable qualities that a woman may have, such as piety, domestic efficiency, thoughtfulness, loyalty, and so forth. My question is: Can these latter virtues justify a man in overlooking a woman's physical deficiencies? There are young women who would spare no effort and thought in making their husbands happy and comfortable, yet they lack physical attractiveness. Shall I fall for such a type of young woman and marry her? LARRY.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer:

Nine times out of ten plain-faced Alice-sit-by-the-fire makes a better wife than does Miss America. And there are many reasons for this. One is that Nature isn't as unjust as we think she is. Generally she scatters her gifts with an impartial hand and when she gives one girl a beautiful face, she gives her sister a beautiful disposition. When she bestows naturally wavy hair on one maiden, she puts brains under another's straight locks, and so on down the line.

Of course, there is an occasional woman who seems to get all the breaks; to have beauty, intelligence, unselfishness, amiability and all the charms and virtues, but such women are rare indeed. Not without reason do we use the phrase "beautiful but dumb" as descriptive of the typical good-looker. It is not often that we see an exceptionally pretty woman who isn't spoiled and who doesn't think that she should have the best of everything, and that her husband should spend his life ministering to her and toiling to give her the fine clothes that she needs to set off her good looks.

The homely woman, on the other hand, knowing that she lacks the fatal lure of beauty, gets busy cultivating other charms. She knows that if she is to be attractive to her fellow creatures she must be interesting and amusing as a campanion, so she cultivates her mind.

She knows she must make an effort to be pleasant and agreeable to draw people about her, and that in order to get a husband and keep him she must cater to him. And that there is more potency in these charms than in the one charm of beauty is proven by the fact that so many women who never take a prize in a beauty show get married.

Personally, I think that the last thing that a man should marry for is beauty, because that does not last. In a few years it is bound to go, but the woman who has a beautiful soul gets more attractive as the years go by. Moreover, the homely woman is always so grateful to the man who picked her out for a wife that she spends her time trying to please him. And that's something of which he never tires.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Not long ago I lost my husband. He left me quite a bit of insurance and a nice car, all of which I kept for myself and my family's use. My mother-in-law is a poor widow who earns her living by doing odd jobs and has nothing whatever besides that and the little her children are able to give her. Should I have given her any of the money that my husband and her son gave his life for? A YOUNG WIDOW

Answer:

I think so. I think you should make her a monthly allowance of as much as you can afford so as to make her life easier and give her a sense of security. Surely if you loved your husband it will make you happy to do something that you know he would have wanted you to do.

To do this will be not only a generous gesture, but an act of justice on your part. After all, your husband made the money he left you, and his mother has a better claim to enjoy some of it than your family has. No woman can owe a greater debt to another woman than a wife owes to the mother of a good husband. For what every man is, is largely the result of the training his mother gave him. If he is frugal and industrious, nine times out of ten it is because his mother held him to his tasks in his childhood.

If he is a go-getter, it is because she lit the fires of ambition in his soul. If he is tender and considerate to his wife, it is because his mother taught him to be chivalrous to women. So I urge you to help your mother-in-law. Make her life easier in her old age and God will bless you for it.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a business woman and want to adopt a baby, but my friends tell me I should wait until I feel that I can give up my work and stay at home with the child. I have my own business that is very successful and which I enjoy very much. Also, my husband and I have made investments and obligated ourselves to such an extent that it would burden him if I gave up my work. We are financially able to have the services of a competent nurse to care for the baby. I think it is the quality and not the quantity of time spent with the child that is important. What do you think about it?

MRS. B. M. L.

Answer:

I think you should go ahead and adopt the baby right away. Even a parti-time mother and a good home are infinitely better for a child than no mother at all in an orphan asylum. If you wait until everything is just propitious for taking the baby, you will never get one at all. Likewise, as you have had no experience with children, a competent baby nurse will be able to take much better care of the youngster for the next two or three years than you would.

Speaking by and large and as a general proposition, when a woman has children she should give them her personal care, but no rule works in all cases and there are many exceptions to this. Theoretically a mother's influence is always beneficient and no hand is so capable in shaping the plastic character of a child as a mother's, but we all know hundreds of instances in which this is not the case. We all know mothers who are totally unfit to rear their children, who are so weak they let their children run over them, so blindly devoted they spoil them rotten, and we know these children would be a thousand times better off if they could be turned over to the discipline of a competent nurse.

And also we know that there are many cases in which the money that a mother can make in working outside of the home more than compensates her children in the advantages she can give them, for her not personally wiping their noses and seeing that they ate their spinach. So don't be afraid to take your baby. DOROTHY DIX

Old Gardener Says:

By E. I. Farrington

Fall is the best time to make a new lawn and August is not too early to begin preparation of the seed bed. The first step should be the removal of weeds. The turning under of weeds and their seeds will result in unnecessary competition with the young grass. The old saying about an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure is all too true in this instance. When the area is as free from weeds as it can be made, the soil should be plowed and harrowed, or spaded and raked. This being done, it is well to allow the newly turned earth to weather for a few days. The best soil for a lawn is a sandy loam. Both calvey and sandy soils can be improved by the addition of peat moss. A complete chemical fertilizer should be thoroughly incorporated in the top two or three inches of soil. The seed can then be sown and raked lightly in to a depth of about a quarter of an inch.

VILLAGE TAKES REST

Amherst, O.—(AP)—When this village of 2,800 population relaxes, it doesn't just make believe. It has no historic date to commemorate, so once each summer it shuts up shop and has a "picnic" just for the fun of it. All stores close, most of the housewives serve cold suppers, and the townsfolk spend the day participating in a parade and street games. This year some 2,000 rural residents went to town to share in the sport.

FLAME TRAIL

SYNOPSIS: Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy Kay Crandon's Lazy Nine after her ranch house and barn burn. He also tries to court Kay. She distrusts him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Hastings' cowhand, Scrap Johnson, molests Kay, but Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hired, rescues her and whips Scrap. Later they shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings, who hates both men, finds them unconscious and murders Scrap, using Ted's gun to frame him. Ted crawls to a shack where a girl takes him in.

Chapter 25
Who's Gun?

TWO days had passed, and still there was no sign of Ted Gaynor.

"I don't understand it, Flicks," Kay whispered brokenly, as she slipped off Flicker's bridle and leaned her head for a moment against his mane "Do you suppose—" she broke off abruptly, as she saw Shorty coming toward her.

"Hi, there! Let me do that!" He took the bridle from her hand. "You hop to it and get some chow, or you'll be out of luck"

"Thanks, Shorty" Kay braced herself, and tried to smile. "Has everyone finished?"

"Seth and a couple of the boys are still there," Shorty answered, bending down to Flicker's cinch. "What d'you think of the timber we're cutting?"

"I think it's fine Only I hate to see those great tamaracks come crashing down"

"Now, ain't that just like a girl?" Shorty commented to Flicker, cocking a quizzical eye at Kay to catch the effect of his words "Here we're breaking our backs building a barn for her, and she wants us to keep the trees to have picnics under!"

"No, I don't Shorty," Kay laughed at Shorty's comical expression in spite of her heavy heart. "I'm as anxious to get the barn built as you are, only I wish—" She left the sentence unfinished.

"Sure. So do I." Shorty agreed, answering Kay's unspoken thought with the freedom of an old friend "You know, it almost seems as though something must have happened to that guy' He wasn't the kind to go back on his word"

"He wasn't, was he?" Kay agreed eagerly. Then, fearful of saying too much, once the flood gates of her troubled thoughts were opened, she turned and made for the mess shack.

The Sheriff's Queries

As she and Seth were discussing the dimensions of the new barn, a sudden clatter of hoofs broke in on them. Springing to her feet, with a quick premonition of trouble, Kay was half way to the door, when it was suddenly darkened by the lanky figure of Zeke Farley, the sheriff of Butte county.

"Hello, there!" he pulled off his hat, as his eye caught Kay. "You're just the girl I wanted to see. Do you know that gun?"

For a moment, everthing swam before Kay's eyes, as she caught sight of the gun the sheriff held out to her. She felt as though every drop of blood was drained from her heart as she stared at it, and braced herself against one of the chairs.

Conscious of curious faces crowded into the doorway behind the sheriff, she cleared her throat once or twice, before she could bring herself to speak.

"Why—why, yes," she faltered. "That was one of Dad's."

Seth came around the table beside her, and took the gun out of the sheriff's hand. "Sure, it was," he corroborated, and then added before Kay could stop him, "But, look here! Wasn't this the one you gave to that Gaynor guy?"

"What's that? the sheriff snapped, his keen eyes traveling from Seth to Kay. "Give it to who? When? Where is he now?"

Kay moistened her lips, before attempting to answer this rapid fire of questions. Her mind was leaping in lightning flashes from one desperate conjecture to another.

What did this gun in Zeke Farley's hands mean? Was Ted hurt—or—killed" Or had he killed someone else? Beating through her fears for him, was the instinctive feeling that she must watch her step and not say something that would incriminate him

"Where — where did you find it?" She stalled for time, by meeting the sheriff's questions with another.

"Never mind that now," Zeke Farley spoke more gently, as he

Women Plan Guest Day At Golf Club

WOMEN of Butte des Morts Golf club will be hostesses at their second guest day of the summer Wednesday. Guest prizes for golf will be given for third low net score and third low gross score, and prizes for members will be given to the low qualifier in each of the flights for the club's championship tournament. There will be a luncheon at noon, and bridge in the afternoon. Mrs David Smith, who is in charge of women's golf events at the club this month, is helping Mrs. Dan Courtney, women's sports chairman, with the arrangements for the day.

* * *

Mrs. L H. Joannes, Green Bay, and Mrs. J. F. Hunt, Neenah, who battled recently for the women's Class A championship in golf at North Shore Golf club, Mrs. Hunt coming out the victor, tied for the mystery prize awarded at ladies' day at the club Monday. The prize was given for low score on holes No. 1 and No. 5 All of the 20 women who turned out for ladies' day activities yesterday were golfers rather than bridge players and preferred to be out on the fairways even in the afternoon, so Mrs. Taylor Ward's job as bridge chairman for the day was an empty one.

Mrs. D. W. Bergstrom of Neenah will be bridge chairman at next Monday's ladies' day, and Mrs. Kenneth Dickinson of Appleton is down as sports chairman.

Devotees of contract bridge gathered Monday night at Butte des Morts Golf club for their weekly game, with David Smith and Burt Manser scoring high for north and south with 56½ match points. Only one-half point behind them were Charles Boyd and Will Roemer, who were second with 56. High for east and west were Mrs. E. W. Douglas and Mrs. M. S. Peerenboom, with 49 match points. Daniel P. Steinberg and Mrs. Joseph Plank were second, east and west, with 41½ match points. Mrs. N. J. Wilmot is in charge of the games, which are played at Butte des Morts each Monday night.

200 Young People Participate in Season's Last Junior Dance at Riverview Country Club

Two hundred young people made merry last night at Riverview Country club's last junior dance of the season, probably the last large party before many of them scatter next month to schools in all parts of the country. The pictures above show some of the gay young crowd which filled the club's ballroom and living room and overflowed to the verandas. At the left are Miss Marcia Ennis of Evanston, Ill., who has been spending the summer in Oshkosh, and Sidney Dutcher of Appleton, shown just after Sidney had cut in on his brother, John, who brought Miss Ennis to the party.

Miss Pauline Noyes Is Wed to Milwaukee Man In Ceremony at Church

WHEN MISS Pauline Noyes, daughter of Mrs. Alma Zuehlke Noyes, 1130 W. Prospect avenue, walked down the aisle of the First Congregational church this noon to exchange wedding vows at the altar with Robert Middleton, Milwaukee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Middleton, Shiocton, her bouquet was tied with the ribbons which her mother used at her own wedding 28 years ago today. The Rev. Horace Parsons read the service.

One of the bride's own compositions, "How Do I Love Thee," was sung during the ceremony by Miss Dorothy Overton of Janesville. Miss Overton sang also "Because" and Grieg's "I Love Thee." Donald Palmer, Arcadia, Wis., played the organ.

Miss Marvis Schmidt, Hilbert, was maid of honor, and Miss Henrietta Faust, Oshkosh, Miss Lydia Becker, Appleton, and the Misses Genevieve and Jeanette Middleton, Shiocton, twin sisters of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Philip Middleton of Shiocton was his brother's best man, and Carl Seaberg, Chicago, Alvin Krabbe, Appleton, Joseph Kasel, Menasha, and James Leisk, Milwaukee were ushers.

60 Guests at Dinner

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the Hotel Appleton to about 60 guests, and a reception will be held from 3 to 6 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's mother. Mr. Middleton and his bride will spend their honeymoon in Canada, returning in about 10 days to make their home at 2612 S Clement avenue, Milwaukee.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huebner and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Beilke, Wausau; Donald Palmer, Arcadia; Miss Henrietta Faust, Oshkosh; Miss Lorraine Lull, Woodman, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Mohrbacher, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Mohrbacher, Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Leisk and Charles Middleton, Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Middleton, Miss Caroline Middleton, Philip Middleton and the Misses Genevieve and Jeanette Middleton, Shiocton; M.. and Mrs. Carl Seaberg, Chicago; Miss Luella Edmonds and Miss Beatrice Goetz, Milwaukee; Miss Marvis Schmidt, Hilbert; Mrs. Joseph Kasel, Joseph Kasel, Jr. and Mrs. Eda Dumke, Menasha; and Mrs. John Long, Shawano.

Girl Scouts Make Plans For Outing

FINAL arrangements for a 2-day overnight trip to Camp Chicagami from Thursday afternoon until Saturday morning were made by Girl Scouts at their day camp Monday at Pierce park. The girls will arrive at the camp at 3:30 Thursday afternoon and return home Saturday morning. Campers may attend for either one or both nights, but anyone wishing to go must register before 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the Girl Scout office. Miss Dorothy Calnin, local director, will accompany the girls on their overnight trip.

A day of varied activities including work on various class tests, handcraft and games was planned for the day camp yesterday. Following patrol meetings at which the girls decided which activities they wished to pursue during the day, a trail hike was held through the park. Girl Scout trail signs were used and the campers followed and interpreted them. At the end of the trail the campers played active relay games.

One group practiced lighting fires with only two matches, a requirement for second class scouts. Barbara Carlson passed the fire-building test successfully. Many of the girls prepared their lunches over the fire, with wieners and marshmallows leading in popularity for foods.

The rest period was spent in listening to readings from Rebecca McCann's "Cheerful Cherub" by Miss Dorothy Calnin, and afterwards a class period was held in which the girls engaged in handcraft, archery, badminton and deck tennis. Margaret Puth scored a bull's-eye in archery. Ann Atcherson and Margaret Ruth are completing their first class map-making requirement, having mapped the area of Erb park to scale.

The campfire program yesterday included a song period and charades by all the patrols. Wednesday's day camp will be held from 10 to 4 o'clock at Erb park.

Mexican Blames Loss of Texas on 'Imperialism'

Mexico City —(AP)— United States students at the University of Mexico's summer school were told recently Uncle Sam's "imperialism" was responsible for this nation's loss of Texas.

"Texan independence was not gained through any high-minded desire on the part of Houston and Austin," Victor Velasquez, professor of diplomatic relations, said. "Mexico was the victim of two contradicting currents: the desire of the United States to expand, and the efforts of Europe to limit that expansion."

Battles of the Alamo and San Jacinto were termed by Valasquez as battles only in "the southern, semi-tropical imagination."

Find Murdered Man Used Assumed Name. Abandoned His Wife

Chicago — (AP)—A revelation that the victim of the moonlight slaying in Grant park used an assumed name and had never married the woman he called his wife added new complications today to the mystery surrounding the case.

Lieutenant Thomas F. Kelly of the state's attorney's staff said police had learned from questioning the woman that the slain man was Herbert F. Lee who had adopted the alias, Robert F. Burns, after abandoning a wife and son in Detroit.

He said the woman also declared her real name was Mrs. Theresa Weichbrodt, and not Mrs. Robert Burns as she had been known to her suburban Evanston neighbors for three years.

Lee, or Burns, was shot to death Sunday during a 2 a. m. tryst with a blonde night club hostess, 22 years old. She first told police her name was Lucille Buehler, then said it was Grace Snyder.

Lieutenant Thomas F. Kelly of the state's attorney's staff said Miss Snyder would be given a lie detector test to check her account of the slaying. She added no new details to her original story that two men suddenly shot Lee while she was strolling with him in the park.

D. A. R. Will Hold Annual State Conference Here

THE call to the forty-first annual state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to be held in Appleton on Sept. 29, 30 and Oct. 1, was issued today to the member chapters by Mrs. E. P. Arpin, Jr., Neenah, state corresponding secretary. As state regent, Mrs. W. Z. Stuart of Neenah will preside at the sessions.

Hostess chapters will be the Appleton group, of which Mrs. L. M. Howser is regent, and the Neenah chapter, whose regent is Mrs. Arthur Ritger. Headquarters will be the First Methodist Episcopal church of Appleton, where all meetings will be held.

Sherman Rogers, Detroit, and Dr. Silas Evans, president of Ripon college, have been engaged to speak at the two evening sessions of the convention. Mr. Rogers' address on "Constructive Americanism" will be the feature of the public program to be given Wednesday night at the Methodist church. The session will begin at 8 o'clock that night with a half hour of music by the MacDowell Chorus of Appleton. This will be followed at 8:30 by a program to be presented in costume by the Indian princess, Nadonis Shawa, and at 9 o'clock Mr. Rogers will give his address.

Dr. Evans to Talk

Dr. Evans will speak on "National Defense for Peace" at the conference dinner at 7 o'clock Thursday night at Riverview Country club.

Registration will begin at 9:30 Wednesday morning, Sept. 29, and the executive board will meet at 10:30 that morning at the church. All chapter regents and state chairmen are expected to attend the board meeting and remain to attend luncheon in a body at 1 o'clock in the dining room of the church. Reservations for the luncheon will be made with Mrs. George Ashman, Appleton, who is chairman of luncheons and the banquet.

Formal opening of the conference will be at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium of the church. Guest of honor and speaker at that session will be Mrs. William H. Pouch, New York City, organizing secretary general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution and national chairman of junior membership. Her address will be followed by an open forum on the junior groups. After the regular afternoon session that day there will be a stereopticon lecture on "Washington, D. C." by Mrs. Marie K. Brown, Chicago. The public program is planned for the evening.

Mrs. Ralph E. Wisner, society's national chairman of junior American citizens, will speak at the Thursday afternoon session.

Hold Tea at Neenah

From 4 until 6 o'clock that afternoon there will be a tea at the home of Mrs. John N. Bergstrom, 165 N. Park avenue, Neenah. The conference banquet will take place at 7 o'clock that evening at Riverview Country club.

A breakfast meeting for chapter regents is scheduled for 8:30 Friday morning at the Methodist church. It will be followed by the regular Friday morning session, with Mrs. William H. Schlosser, national vice chairman of the D. A. R. student loan fund and state regent of Indiana, as guest speaker. The memorial service will be held the same morning, with Mrs. Louis A. Pradt, Wausau, state chaplain, in charge.

In addition to the general meetings, several group discussions have been arranged. Chapter historians and chairmen of historical research will have breakfast together one morning, and another breakfast is being arranged by Mrs. William Cudworth, state vice regent and chairman of national defense, for chapter chairmen of national defense. A special luncheon for the junior chairmen of each chapter and for all juniors attending the conference will take place in the church dining room Thursday noon.

Among the exhibits will be one of handicraft from Northland college, one of the D. A. R. approved schools. The society's state chairman of American Indians will also arrange an exhibit for her department, and a "Shrine of the Constitution of the United States" will be shown. Mrs. C. H. Chapman of Appleton is chairman of exhibits for the convention.

Steelmakers are Preparing Plants For Fall Demand

Expect Next 2 Weeks to Indicate Trend for Autumn Months

Steelmaking is at the crossroads for this season and the next ten days to two weeks are expected to indicate the trend for the fall months. Most indications are for a turn to the right, with resumption of satisfactory buying and an active period, says Steel.

Although the production rate is declining from the level of early August, production at that time was beyond ordinary midsummer experience and the slackening of the present is to a more normal condition. However, part of the present decline is attributed to need for repair to steelmaking equipment which has had unusually severe treatment for several months. Weakening of demand for deliveries has been welcomed as an opportunity to place equipment in condition for an expected active fall campaign. Finishing departments continue at a high rate.

Steelworks operations last week declined 3 points to 81 per cent of capacity. At Chicago a rise of ½ point to 86.5 brought the highest point of the year. At St. Louis a rise of 7 points to 64 per cent, at Cincinnati 4 points to 93 and in New England 10 points to 75 reflected rising activity. Pittsburgh declined 3.5 to 79.5, Eastern Pennsylvania 4 to 65, Youngstown 5 to 73, Wheeling 4.8 to 89.2, Cleveland 5.5 to 79.5, Detroit 5 to 95. No change was made in the rate at Buffalo at 86 and Birmingham 96.

Some quickening of buying has appeared in almost every market area and in many lines of production but it has not been sufficient to balance shipments, though in some instances it has come close to that point.

Shipyard strikes in eastern Pennsylvania were ended late last week by workers voting to return. This will release considerable plate tonnage, which has been held back since the strike started in June. Specifications for ship material are expected to begin to reach mills this week and should aid production schedules in that area.

Interruption to trade in China by the Sino-Japanese struggle at Shanghai is not expected to have great effect on trade as observers familiar with the situation believe Japan will retire as soon as she can do so without loss of face, as China is one of her best customers.

Seasonal tapering of automotive production is evident, though not at a rapid rate, last week producing 93,339 units, compared with 103,250 the preceding week. Practically all this shrinkage was in General Motors lines, a drop from 41,865 to 32,954: Ford was steady with 26,000 each week and Chrysler made 26,600 compared with 26,900 the previous week: production by all other makers totaled 7785, compared with 8425 the week before. Assemblies of 1937 models will be practically ended by the beginning of September and first of the 1938 models will appear. With this transition specifications for steel will be resumed by the automobile industry.

Practically all pig iron producers have opened books for fourth quarter delivery without change in price. This action is somewhat earlier than usual and consumers are beginning to make reservations, in view of the fact that an increase in price may be made later, as was done during first quarter of this year. In fact, some producers have made it plain that present opening of books for fourth quarter does not preclude a later advance, which probably would be effective immediately on announcement.

While scrap is marking time in the absence of large buying, much strength is evident, as yard stocks are small and relatively little material is coming into the market. Heavy melting steel at Pittsburgh has advanced 50 cents on a tonnage purchase, indicating the underlying strength awaiting heavy demand to bring a higher range. Some scrap observers believe considerably higher prices will prevail by mid-autumn.

Because of an advance at Pittsburgh the composite price of scrap rose 17 cents last week, to $20.50, a few cents higher than at the end of April. The same influence brought a rise of 4 cents in the iron and steel composite, to $40.36. The finished steel composite remains unchanged at $61.70.

Experimental Garden Yields Unusual Produce

Vegetables of rare size and quality are being grown in the experimental garden at the sewage treatment plant, according to C. O. Baetz, plant superintendent. Planted in red clay and fertilized with sludge, the produce rival any grown in the blackest soil, he claimed.

Proof of the value of the sluge as a fertilizer is demonstrated by the showing made by tomatoes in a fertilized area and those in an unfertilized patch. Plants growing in the fertilized soil are strong and large, bearing good sized tomatoes while the plants in the unfertilized patch are scrawny and drawf tomatoes hang on the vines.

Among the vegetables grown by Baetz are carrots, beets, beans, corn, cucumbers, squash, potatoes and Swiss chard. He says they are of more uniform size and grow faster than in the ordinary garden.

It is planned to secure a grinder this fall to pulverize the sludge, now drying in the sun, and pack it in 25, 50 and 100 pound sacks. The sludge will be available to the public after Oct. 10 but the cost has not been determined. It is sold in Milwaukee for $2.25 a 100 pounds but the price here is expected to be considerably lower.

Under The Capitol Dome

By John Wyngaard
Post-Crescent Staff Correspondent

Madison—Power given to no other legislators is that enjoyed by the two legislative members of the state emergency board, composed of the chairmen of the joint finance committee and the governor.

That board, now consisting of Senator E. M. Rowlands of Cambria, Progressive senate floorleader, and E. J. Hoesly of New Glarus, old line Green county LaFollette follower, and Governor LaFollette is more powerful now than ever before because it has $1,000,000 to spend for each of the two years of the current biennium, more than most of the important administrative departments of the state government.

The emergency board is not new. It was formed originally in 1915, reorganized in 1929 for the purpose of meting out necessary funds to state departments for emergency needs not anticipated in legislative appropriations. That year it got $250,000.

* * *

This year, despite the outbursts of pain and amazement from the Democrats and Republicans, who had an understandable reluctance to handing over a cool million to a select committee composed entirely of their political opponents, the Progressive majority voted to quadruple the appropriation to the board.

The legislative members of the emergency board have in the last few years increased their work. Rowlands and Hoesly a few days ago, for instance, completed a summer long survey of the relief difficulties of the northern Wisconsin counties, made a report to the chief executive which he will use in drafting his recommendations for relief legislation to the special legislative session.

Besides such extra - curricular functions, the board members look over the financial needs of the state departments each quarter, pass on all proposed increases in state salaries, release conditional budget appropriations, and any other odd jobs which the governor may assign to them.

For this work the members receive their expenses, and ten dollars a day while at work, in addition to their legislative salaries.

* * *

The senior member of the board, Rowlands, (Governor LaFollette is chairman) is the chairman of the Progressive state central committee, has served in the legislature for a decade, and has twice been a candidate for state treasurer.

* * *

Gathering ground for Progressive moguls during the last month has been Waupaca county. Attorney General Loomis has spoken there twice in recent weeks, Governor LaFollette has appeared twice, and State Treasurer Sol Levitan has appeared once.

Sponsor of many of these appearances by prominent Progressives is Senator Herman J. Severson of Waupaca county, friend and advisor of the governor.

Senator Severson, talking politics with friends here the other day, told an amusing story about Glenn Frank, former state university head, and now reputedly ambitious for high political office.

Severson had invited the educator to address a picnic gathering of his farm constituents one Sunday evening several years ago. Dr. Frank accepted, during a week filled with half a dozen other speaking engagements.

Arriving at the small town after nightfall, Frank reached into his brief case to get what he thought was a manuscript dealing with agriculture in Europe. After getting on the rostrum, however, he found that he had taken instead a philosophical speech intended for a meeting of scholars, and written in the beautifully flowing language which has made him famous.

He delivered the speech.

Taking a cue from their elders in the G. O. P. officers of the Wisconsin Republicans are going forward with plans for a fall program of work.

According to Ed Goode, Minocqua, president of the youth organization, announcement of autumn activities will be made on September 1. Reports current here say that there will be a fall state convention, probably in Green Bay, at which Senator Borah of Idaho will be the principal speaker.

The state department of public welfare's elaborate, 50 page monthly publication, The Wisconsin Public Welfare Review, this month contributes the information that in a typical month out door relief clients in Wisconsin use only half of the aid they receive for food.

Relief costs are divided by the public welfare department as follows: food, 51 per cent; shelter, 17.4 per cent; clothing, 7-1 per cent; fuel, 8.9 per cent; public utility service, 2.2 per cent; medical care, 6.7; dental care 1; miscellaneous, 1.1, and cash, 41.6.

Odds and ends: Embattled tenants in the captial city are now earnestly at work on one of the city's most baffling problems, housing. A tenants' league has been formed with the avowed purpose of bringing down rental scales. One of the leaders is Norman Clapp, formerly of Appleton, now an investigator for the state labor board .... Summertime is vacation time for almost everyone except the capital guides. They work harder during the summer months than during any other period. Hundreds of visitors are shown through the capitol daily .... Officers of the Wisconsin Public Employes association plan a drive to organize municipal and county employes in the Fox River Valley shortly. According to the local office, Brown county employes are now organizing, while municipal workers in Kaukauna have already formed a local .... Lobbyists during the 1937 session of the legislature earned considerably more than all members of both houses, the Progressive newspaper here editorialized the other evening.

Concerted Drive On Degenerates Begun in Chicago

City and County Officials Unite in Effort to End Sex Crimes

Chicago—(AP)—Aroused by a series of attacks on women, including the rape-slaying of a young student nurse, city and county law enforcement officials united today in a concerted drive against degenerates.

Mayor Edward L. Kelly authorized a standing $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person committing a serious sex crime.

The mayor also announced he would press for enactment of an ordinance to require all fire escapes to be equipped with electric alarms.

The man who ravished and slew Anna Kuchta 19-year-old nurse, was believed to have entered her room at Chicago hospital by means of a fire escape. Assailants of several other women in hotels likewise climbed into rooms from fire escapes.

Outline Plan

State's Attorney Thomas Courtney and Police Commissioner James Allman mapped a "definite plan of action" at a conference with other officials.

The plan called for special details of police at hospitals, hotels, nurses homes and other buildings where sleeping quarters can be reached by fire escapes. It also provided for the establishment of a separate police file on degenerates, and the assignment of men guests only to hotel rooms near fire escapes or other structures.

Meanwhile the search for Miss Kuchta's slayer continued with apparently few new clues. Police Captain Ray Crane said he had positive information the assailant was a white man. More than 80 Negroes arrested on suspicion were released.

Bills of exchange and promissory notes in Great Britain and Ireland are payable on the preceding business day when the last day of grace falls on Christmas or Good Friday.

saw Kay's distress, but his eyes were none the less keen. "Just you tell us everything you know about it."

Realizing that all she could do was to tell the truth, Kay explained how she had given the gun to Ted Gaynor, and had last seen it when he started off for Clear Water Basin, to get his mother and sister and bring them back.

"How did the gun come into your hands?" Kay ended, facing herself to face the facts whatever they might be.

The sheriff hesitated, and gave an imperceptible nod to Seth over Kay's head.

"Don't you worry about that," he evaded soothingly. "I'll talk to Seth outside.

"No you won't!" Kay interposed, her eyes flashing, and her body straight and taut with determination. "You've got to tell me anything you have to say about it! I won't be kept in suspense."

Found: A Dead Man

The sheriff shrugged. "Well, I reckon you've got to hear about it, sooner or later, so there's no point in making a mystery about it. Also, I want to know all you can tell me about this Gaynor guy—where you met him and how long you've known him, and so forth."

"But how did you come by the gun?" Kay insisted. "You must tell me that first."

The sheriff took the gun back from Seth, and gravely weighed it in his hand, as he eyed it critically.

"There ain't much doubt," he said slowly, "but what this gun has killed a man."

Kay put her hand up to her throat. "Yes—yes—go on!"

"One of the fire patrol was coming back over the divide, yesterday, and by the head waters there, he found a dead man shot through the temple. And not 50 feet away, he came on this gun, lying where the murderer had left it."

"The dead man was a mile or so over on the Idaho side of the state line, but this guy was headed this way, so he brought the gun down to me. I called up the sheriff at Clear Water Basin, but he was off after a bunch of rustlers, and his deputy asked me to help out on the job until he could join me.

"Who was the man?" Kay got the question out through parched lips.

"A fellow named Scrap Johnson, who was one of the Flying Six outfit. He—"

He got no further, for Kay, with a cry of mingled relief and dismay, suddenly sank down on the chair near her.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

New York—(AP)—A stack of coins, or of poker chips, represents the structure of certain microscopic crystals that have the power to change themselves into living things.

The crystals are the tobacco mosaic virus, which acts like bacteria in causing a tobacco plant disease. They are inanimate matter, which when it gets together in a unit of the right shape, and in the presence of already living matter, become alive themselves. They are able to reproduce.

Their structure is supposed to have something to do with their ability to come to life. This structure has been found with the aid of X-rays by J. D. Bernal and I. Fankuchen, Crystallographic Laboratory, Cambridge, England, and is described in the official British science journal, Nature.

The protein molecules get together in thin, flat flakes. They are not round like coins but hexagonal. They stack like coins and the result is a long, thin crystal, which seems to be the missing link between the living and the inanimate world.

Appleton Softball Championship Series to be Resumed

American, City, Fraternal Loops Enter in Playoff

Disputed Game Also Settled; Fraternals Beat Church Stars

A SOFTBALL series for the title of city champion will be resumed in Appleton next week, it was decided at a meeting of officers of the American, American City and Fraternal leagues last night at the Y. M. C. A., at which differences of past years were buried and the boys smoked each others' cigarets and patted each other on the back.

The plan is to start the series at 5:15 Monday evening at Roosevelt field with the Appleton Woolen Mills battling the Valley Iron Works. The Woolens are American league champs and the Irons are City league champs.

The winner of the game will meet the Fraternal league champs, who may or may not be the Moose, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 1, also at Roosevelt field. The Fraternal league title will be settled this week when the Moose and Foresters play off a tie at Wilson school.

Settle All-Star Dispute

Yesterday also marked the final decision in what to do about the much disputed American-City All-Star contest of last Friday evening. It was agreed that the game should go to the American league by a forfeit score of 9 to 0 and that the series would be three games out of five instead of two out of three. So, with the American league holding a 2-game edge at the moment, the third game will be staged Wednesday evening at Roosevelt school.

The All-Star series between the Fraternal and Church leagues moved closer to a finish last night when the Fraternals evened matters with a 7 to 5 victory. The Church loop won the opener, 6 to 5.

Take Early Lead

In last night's game the Fraternals scored twice in the second and again in the third to take a 4-0 lead. The Church league got two of the runs back in the last of the fourth and in the eighth the Fraternals made the count 7-2 with a 3-run assault.

The Church leaguers weren't defeated by a long ways when they came to bat in the last of the ninth, and they jumped on George Fauk, who heads Mr. Bates' pitching platoon, for three runs and for a few minutes appeared headed for a tie or a victory.

The third and final game of the series will be played Thursday night at Roosevelt school.

All-Stars Map Plan to Thwart Herber's Passes

Chicago —(AP)— Mapping and polishing a defense against the passes of the famed Arnold Herber occupied the All-Star squad today as the former college gridders continued drills for their battle Sept. 1 at Soldier Field against Green Bay's Packers.

Head Coach Gus Dorais told the collegians he had full respect for Herber, the Packer back whose passes to Don Hutson have featured so many Green Bay victories in the last two seasons.

Bernie Moore, coach at Louisiana State and one of Dorais' staff, Layden of Notre Dame, Jimmy Phelan of Washington and Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern — pooled their ideas.

The collegians will scrimmage again tomorrow.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

IF ANYONE who plays golf in this vicinity is at his desk, his store or office on Thursday it will be little short of a miracle.

For Kaukauna Golf club is holding its annual jamboree and guest day program and so is New London and both are planning programs that will tempt golfers away from anything that smacks of work.

Over at Kaukauna they'll start the day's program at sunrise—and close it at sunrise the next morning. There'll be around 200 prizes for golf, poor golf, no golf at all and just on general principles. There'll also be dinner, supper and refreshments for the price of the registration fee.

New London's golf program will start at a bit more respectable hour, 10 o'clock in the morning to be exact, and will continue the remainder of the day and into the night. Just what they have planned in the way of excitement I can't say but there'll be golf, a lot of fun and prizes galore, they say.

Understand that my pal John Walter up Green Bay way spent a very, very bad evening last week. It seems that John covered a ball game in which the Green Sox took a trimming from Algoma, a wee bit of a town along the lake shore. Not only was it a cold, damp night with the Sox playing in the rain most of the game in the hopes of getting a run to put them ahead, and thereby making John most uncomfortable, but it seems that Cowboy Wheeler of Algoma, who qualifies for his name by his ability to "ride" someone, gave poor John an awful evening. Congratulations, Cowboy.

The University of Wisconsin is to get four of Manitowoc's best athletes in recent years. They are Ely Francis, who'll be a great miler when he learns to get out ahead of the pack, Rust Novak, a sprinter, Rex John and Louis Moentenich, footballers.

Roses to the Kaukauna common council for giving the baseball team $100 for that trip to the state tournament at Milwaukee. I hope the boys make a good showing because it would set a bad precedent to get the help and then let the home folks down.

Saw President Thomas N. Barrows of Lawrence chasing a golf ball around Riverview course the other day and he was very much pleased with the fact that Vinc Jones is going to Lawrence this fall. He made no bones about it that Vinc will help the tackle situation a lot and be a nice addition to the track squad.

During our few minutes of conversation—and because he realized I didn't care much about whether there would be new economics profs around or a dozen new text books in the foreign language department—he mentioned that Adolph Dillon, the new football line coach and assistant in the physical education department, would be a great addition to the staff. He intimated a lot of linemen are going to find him a tough lad who'll get right down in the dirt and spill plenty.

Friends of St. Norbert college boxing are trying to work up a bout between the Green Knights and the University of Wisconsin as an annual affair. Their efforts have been good enough to bring a very vague letter from Harry Stuhldreher at the U. to the effect he'd like to see such a program started.

But personally we'll stick with Referee Freddie Andrews' crack here once last winter: "Why should Wisconsin jeopardize its boxing prestige by running into a squad as touch as St. Norbert." In other words I don't think the boxing teams of the two schools will clash for many moons.

Incidentally, Tom Kennealy, the St. Norbert heavyweight performer, has been named captain of the CYO boxers at Chicago who will meet a team of South Americans in Soldiers field, Chicago, Wednesday night.

Norbert "Nubs" Kleinke, Fond du Lac, who is with Rochester in the International league and the property of the St Louis Cardinals, is expected to win 20 games this season. GRAPHIC GOLF

BY BEST BALL

There is an old golf saying, that a golfer's game is no stronger than his hands. To a certain extent this is true. A golfer's hands are his only actual connection with the club and thus his only means of transmitting power to the ball. If they are weak, they are in a measure incapable of applying the full force generated by the body action

One who has good hand action in the golf stroke can feel the clubshaft bending on the ball. Naturally this feeling comes most often to the golfer who can time his stroke and hand action so that maximum speed is reached at impact. This feature too is dependent upon strong hands, for they must be capable of withholding their real power until the proper moment.

Generally speaking it is the left hand which most of the average golfers have trouble with. In most cases it is the most unused hand in sports but in golf much depends upon it It should lead the club back and lead it down. To increase its utility swinging practice with the left is advisable. This is not only good practice along correct golf lines but strengthens the left hand while making it more conscious of the actual clubhead feel. Hand exercisers are also of considerable benefit and the mere squeezing of rubber ball or wadded handkerchief several times a day has been known to improve one's score.

Favorites Win At Women's Meet

Mrs. Opal Hill Takes Medal Honors With Score Of 75

St. Paul —(AP)— Virtually all the favorites remained in the running today as match play in the 37th annual women's western golf tournament got underway over the Town and Country course.

Leading the array of star young talent in yesterday's 18 hole qualifying was Mrs. Opal Hill, the veteran of many national and international tournaments in the past decade, who set a new competitive course record of 75 in winning the medal.

Scores of 87 or under qualified for the championship flight, one place allotted to three 38 scorers resulting in a playoff which was won on the second hole by Marion Callahan of Madison, Wis.

Mrs. Hill's opponent today was Muriel Veatch of Portland, Ore., who turned in an 83 in the qualifying.

Second in the qualifying were four players, all with 78's. They were Patty Berg of Minneapolis, Mrs. E. F. Cary of St. Paul, Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Texas, and Virginia Ingram of Chicago.

LARDNER HAS 78

Portland, Ore. —(AP)— Lynford Lardner, Jr., of Wauwatosa, posted a 37-41—78 yesterday to lead Wisconsin entrants through the first half of the 36 hole qualifying test in the national amateur golf championship.

He was seven strokes behind Arthur Doering, Jr., of Chicago, and Frank Strafaci, of Brooklyn, who shot first place 71's.

Wilford Wehrle, of Racine, Wis., scored a 42-39—81, and Dick Ashley, of Kenosha, Wis., 42-38—80.

Bat Boy Ducks, Bat Hits Ball and Ruins Hurler's No-Hit Tilt

Lynchburg, Va.—(AP)—There were a thousand witnesses to this one.

Billy Roberson, Virginia Military Institute athlete, hurling for a Lynchburg semi-pro baseball team, needed to retire only one more Ashboro, N. C., batsman to register his second no-hit game of the season.

The Ashboro manager, in a sporting gesture, sent his 13-year-old bat boy to the plate as a pinch-hitter. Roberson, appreciating the gesture, decided to go easy on the lad and sent him an easy pitch.

The bat boy, expecting a fast one, ducked and in trying to get out of the way his bat accidentally got in the path of the ball. The result was a fluke single.

Kobal's Tavern softballers turned in their 33rd win of the season Sunday when they defeated the Wisconsin Veterans Home team by a score of 4 to 3 in ten innings at the Home. The Vets scored once in the first and the Kobals twice in the third. The Vets went ahead again in the fifth with two markers In the first of the ninth, with two away, Rammer got a life on an error which scored Johnny Bauers who had singled to open the frame. The winning run then came in the tenth when Bob Diener doubled and scored on Tilly's single Gene Kloes started on the mound for Kobals but gave way to Bob Diener after six innings when his leg caused too much pain. Diener fanned nine and allowed one hit. Kloes fanned four. Thiele tossed for the Vets and fanned 19 and walked 4.

Sport Short Made on Coast Last Winter to be Shown Here

The Packers are coming to Appleton—via the movie screen.

The big Bays, world's professional football champions last year and now preparing for a game with the college All-Stars on Sept. 1 at Chicago, will be seen on the screen of the Rio theater Wednesday and Thursday in the movie the squad made out on the coast last fall. It recently had its premier showing at Green Bay, the first time in the history of the Bay a picture ever was shown in that city for the first time in the country.

The picture is a sport short and runs for about 15 minutes. It shows Herber turning in a few passing feats, shows Hutson catching passes, Hinkle punting out of bounds on the one-foot line, a few of the pet Packer players and numerous individual stunts.

Berwin Wins Another In Legion Jr. Play

Lynn, Mass. —(AP)— Berwyn, Ill., met Lynn in the finals of the junior American Legion's northern regional baseball championship today, after a powder-packed 17-3 victory last night over South Bend, Ind.

Pitcher Ken Kolivka of Berwyn became the day's hero by rolling up 19 strikeouts and allowing only two hits. Catcher Ed Lech and first baseman Seymour Hirschberg accounted for all 27 putouts. Hirschberg handling the eight left over after Lech's 19.

Today's winners become eligible to meet the winner of the New Orleans-Omaha playoff.

Farm Boy, Housewife May Make Trap Meet History

VANDALIA, O. —(AP)— Joe Hiestand, Hillsboro, O., farm boy, and Mrs. Lela Hall, Strasburg, Mo., housewife, had a chance to make trapshooting history today by winning their third consecutive national clay target championships —a feat never performed in the 38-year tenure of the Grand American program.

Hiesand, the nation's No. 1 scattergun artist, won the men's crown the last two years with scores of 199 of 200, while Mrs. Hall took the feminine laurels in 1935 with 191 of 200, and last year with 196 of 200, the latter score a record for her sex in Grand American competition.

The greatest scoring barrage in the history of the "grand" was put on display yesterday as five championships were decided, a total of 41 perfect scores of 100 in a row being posted on the boards, along with three 200 scores.

Hale C. Jones of Wood River, Ill., won the feature event, the "champion of champions" race for state title-holders breaking 100 in a row in the regular shoot and then beating three others in a 25-target shootoff with a perfect count. Jones was the defending champion, and he outclassed the other 30 state champs in the flight.

Other championships decided yesterday with the winning scores:

Husband and wife—Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Hess of Philadelphia, Pa., 383 of 400.

Junior—Stanley Meadows, 17, of Des Moines, Ia., 98 of 100.

Sub-junior—Rudy Etchen, 14, of Wichita, Kan., 95 of 100.

Senior—E. E. Daniels, 69, of Birmingham, Mich., 195 of 200.

Valley Irons Clash With Forsters Tonight

Valley Iron softball team will try to add the Forster Taverns to its list of victims this evening when the teams clash at 8:30 under the Forster lights on E. John street. Stan Tesch will pitch and Heibl catch for the Foresters. Branchford is reported ready to take the mound for the Irons.

Wednesday evening the Foresters will meet the Hour Tavern team of Oshkosh on the Forster diamond while another game has been planned for Friday night but the opponent hasn't been secured.

Veterans of the Diamond

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of articles on baseball veterans in this section.)

Waupaca—Buss Pope of the Waupaca team in the Wolf Valley league started playing ball when he was a little kid and used the back yard for a diamond. He's been with Waupaca now for somewhere around 15 years.

Pope first got into organized ball when he joined the army at the age of 17. He played centerfield with army teams in California and Virginia in 1918 and 1920. After that he returned to the old home town, but his first season there he played with Weyauwega. The following year he played with an independent team and then came back to Waupaca where he's stuck ever since, in one league or another. He played in the outfield up to six or seven years ago and has been holding down first base since.

Louis to Finish Training Grind

Six Rounds of Boxing Today Will Complete Scheduled Work

Pompton Lakes, N. J. —(AP)— With 74 rounds of boxing against a capable group of sparring partners behind him, Joe Louis closes his ring work today in preparation for his defense of the heavyweight championship against Tommy Farr at the Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

There has been no break in the boxing routine since the champion started workouts July 31. The schedule called for 80 rounds in the training ring and six today will make that total.

Louis has gone through his training routine without an injury and without annoyances or worries. He has had some tough workouts against a rough and ready trio of sparmates, Pal Silvers, Tiger Hairston and George Nicholson. His hitting and timing should be properly attuned when he steps into the ring.

Joe varied his off-day routine slightly yesterday when a heavy rain kept him from the customary six miles of early-morning roadwork. He made up for it with a brisk gymnasium drill in the afternoon. He scaled 201 pounds before the drill and expects to be down to 198 for the weighing-in Thursday afternoon.

FARR ON EDGE

Long Branch, N. J.—(AP)—If those flashes of irascibility usually associated with "peak form" of a boxer mean anything, Tommy Farr is on edge for his bout with Champion Joe Louis Thursday night.

The Welshman has become increasingly irritable in the past few days. Everything seems to annoy him and his entourage, individually and collectively, has been a target for repeated outbursts. All this is pleasing to his manager, Ted Broadribb, with whom Tommy is hardly on speaking terms.

"Tommy's getting right on edge," Broadribb grins. "That's a good sign. When he begins to abuse even his closest friends, it means he's close to the peak of his form. He won't be very pleasant company for us but we're used to it."

The heavy rain which cancelled yesterday's workout did not help matters. Farr had planned a program of shadow boxing, rope skipping and bag punching. Now he plans to add that work to today's regular boxing session.

Boston Horses Win 2 Events at State Fair

Milwaukee—(AP)—Horses from the Fair Oaks Farm, Lexington, Mass., carried the colors of Paul Bowser, Boston, to victories in two harness racing events at the Wisconsin state fair yesterday.

De Sota, a trotter which ran second in the recent Hambletonian at Goshen, N. Y., captured the 2:28 trot with three first place heats of 2:07½, 2:07, and 2:08.

Avondale, a stablemate, won the 2:28 pace with two first place heats and a second in the third heat. Avondale's best performance was a 2:05 in the initial heat.

Senator July of the Kupfer stables, Madison, took one fifth and two sixth places, while Pericles, an Oshkosh entry, finished sixth in the first heat and fifth in each of the next two heats. Pericles and Senator Judy competed in the 2:28 trot.

Von Cramm, Henkel to Seek Doubles Title

Brookline, Mass. —(AP)— Having hurdled the new experience of playing with American tennis balls, Baron Gottfried Von Cramm and Heinrich Henkel, Germany's Davis cup stars, were ready today to go after the national doubles championships, currently held by their Wimbledon and Davis cup conquerors, Donald Budge and Gene Mako

Two days of rain left the famous Longwood turf courts unplayable, but officials were hopeful for a letup today. "One full morning with a hot sun will put the courts in top shape," one official said.

WELL REPRESENTED

Milwaukee — Marquette university will be well-represented in the National Professional Football league this fall. Now in training are Ward Cuff, fullback, with the New York Giants; Wayland Becker, end, with the Green Bay Packers, and John Sisk and Gene Ronzani, halfbacks, and Milt Trost, tackle, with the Chicago Bears. Ray Buivid, halfback, may join the Bears later.

Giants Have Poor Record on Home Stamping Ground

Begin 11-Game Stand Today at Polo Grounds; Cubs First

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

THE Giants may have their backs to the wall, but at least it's their own wall.

New York's National league candidates for a 5-cent world series aren't the iron-clad invincibles in the Polo grounds that the sure-fire Yankees are in their ball yard just across the Harlem river. The Giants have lost more than twice as many home games—22 to 10—as the Rupper riot squad, but even so their record there is better than on the road.

The short targets in right and left field, familiar to Mel Ott and Co., may stand the Terrymen in good stead as they start today an 11-game stand against the west that opens with a brief but potentially decisive 2-game setto with the Cubs.

Charley Grimm's Bruins go into the opening game against mealticket Carl Hubbell still holding the 4-game lead with which they left Chicago a week ago. A strong finish against the Reds after a poor start against the Pirates kept their margin safe. In addition, rain washed the Giants out of double-headers with the Phillies two days in a row.

The good news that Ripper Collins might be back in another two weeks spurred on the Chicagoans. The Giants, on the other hand, had three front-line performers on the doubtful list—Rowdy Dick Bartell, the pepper-pot shortstop; Slick Castleman, who has to pitch in a harness if at all, and Sam Leslie, the slightly slow-footed but slugging first baseman.

The Yanks, swinging into the west for the last time and stacking up against the White Sox, are in much better shape to sew up the American league flag once and for all.

All games were washed out by rain yesterday.

Rudy York Gets a Homer Every 10.6 Trips to the Plate

Detroit —(AP)— Rudolph Preston York, the big Detroit Tiger rookie who plays five or six positions and is now catching, is hitting home runs at the fastest rate in major league baseball.

York has hit 23 circuit drives in 67 games while Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee star who lead both big leagues, has clouted 36 in 105 games. On the basis of times at bat York is nitting for four bases approximately every 10.6 trips as compared with 12.2 for DiMaggio.

York's batting average is approximately 275. He has been moving up since Manager Mickey Cochrane told him to put on the mask and shin guards in the middle of the last eastern trip.

York, 24 years old and part Indian, was voted the most valuable player in the American association last year. He played first base for Milwaukee but was unable to displace Hank Greenberg when he came to the Tigers.

Now Greenberg says of York, "that fellow is beginning to make me look like a bunter."

Chicago, Brooklyn Golfers Set Pace At Amateur Meet

But Heavy Rain and Mud Make Course One Big Hazard

BY FRANK GORRIE

PORTLAND, ORE.—(AP)—Arthur L. Doering, Jr., of Chicago and Frank Strafaci of Brooklyn whipped par yesterday in qualifying for the national amateur golf tournament.

Doering and Strafaci set a wicked pace with 71's, one under par, in first day qualifying rounds for the 64 match play spots.

Right behind them over the rain-soaked Alderwood Country club course were five sharpshooters with 72's—Eddie Hogan of Portland, Ray Billows, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Harry Givan, Seattle, Walker cup player last year; Robert Rabbish, Rochester, Minn., and Roger Kelly, Los Angeles.

The starting field numbered 171.

Eight competitors were caught by darkness last night and were to finish the last two and three holes of the opening 18 this morning. One of them, Mat Palacio, Jr., of San Rafael, Calif., had an excellent chance to join the leaders. He needed only two pars for a 73.

Course Is Tough

Experts found the course a tough layout in the rain and wind, and anxious eyes were peeled to the fickle clouds when the showdown came today.

The course became one big hazard yesterday.

Scores soared and the experts figured 156 or 157 for the 36-hole route would be good enough to place in the match-play competition starting tomorrow.

Doering set up the packing score of 71 with cards of 38-33 over the par 37-35 course. Strafaci counted 37-34.

Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, defending champion, picked on too many trees and traps. He wound up in a tie with 16 others at 76. He had a pair of 26s. Joining Fischer were such well known performers as Eddie Held of Denver, former public links and Trans-Mississippi winner; Freddie Haas, Jr., of New Orleans and Don Schumacher of Dallas.

Goodman Has 77

Johnny Goodman of Omaha, the outstanding favorite and 1933 national open champion, carded a 36-41—77. Of four "old-time" champions, Chick Evans of Chicago, Jesse Guilford of Boston and Ross Sommerville of London, Ont., still had a chance, but Francis Ouimet of Boston fell by the wayside with an 85.

Evans had a 74, Guilford, 81, and Sommerville, 77.

Eight former Walker cuppers still were very much in the race. They were Jack Westland of Seattle, 75, Gus Moreland of Peoria, Ill., 80, Walter Emery of Oklahoma City, 76, Charley Yates, Atlanta, 79, Reynolds Smith of Dallas, 79, Charley Yates, Atlanta, 79, Reynolds Smith of Dallas, 79, and Scotty Campbell of Seattle and Donald Moe of Portland, 75.

First with the bowling news for the 1937-38 season — that's Henry Otto of the Knights of Columbus league.

As chairman of publicity Henry reports that the K. of C. bowling committee and captains of last year's team have had one meeting, or maybe two, and that another will be held at 7:30 Thursday evening at the Catholic Home. Organization of the K. C. loop with 16 teams is the purpose of the meetings and team captains will report on how well they are lining up squads. The Knights will open the season Monday, Sept. 13, on the Elks alleys.

Members of the bowling committee are "Hooks" Pankratz, chairman, Walter Steenis, Sylvester Timmers, Dr. W. G. Keller and Henry Otto.

Helen Wills Awarded Decree; Wed 8 Years

Glenbrook, Nev. — (AP) — Helen Wills Moody, a divorcee after almost eight years of married life, rested beside Lake Tahoe today and planned a brief return to the tennis courts before leaving on a trip to New York and London.

The one-time women's tennis champion of the world was granted a divorce from Frederick S. Moody, Jr., San Francisco broker, in a private, 8-minute court session yesterday in Carson City. They were married Dec. 23, 1929, in Berkeley, Calif.

The calmness that always marked her tennis appearances went with her into the courtroom where she answered briefly the questions of her lawyer, Robert M. Price.

Later she sipped beer and ate pretzels at a brewery.

Two Rivers Given Elks Pin Tourney

Green Bay — Two Rivers has been selected as the site of the 1938 Elks' state bowling tournament to be held March 25 to May 3, it was announced here today by Tony Van Beek, secretary-treasurer of the tourney committee. Entries will close March 16, he added.

MOVE ATHLETIC OFFICE

Milwaukee — Mrs. Oneida Lehman, efficient secretary in the Marquette university department of athletics, is rapidly becoming known as Florence Nightingale. Not a day passes but what at least one person comes to her desk and asks to have his tonsils removed or some steel taken from his eye. The reason is that the Marquette athletic headquarters recently were moved into a building vacated to the university hospital.

If Farr Ever Gets Grip On Joe Louis' Hand He Will Win Bout Easily

To get the real lowdown on Tommy Farr, the AP Feature Service sent Charles (Average Citizen) Norman to Mr. Farr's training camp. As Mr. Norman doesn't know anything about prize fighters and can't even box a compass, we figured he would approach the problem with a fresh mind. Here is his report. It isn't very long, because he had to write it with his left hand for reasons which will be pretty apparent when you read the story.

BY CHARLES NORMAN
AP Feature Service Writer

LONG BRANCH, N. J. — What chance has Tommy Farr against Joe Louis? That's what you want to know, isn't it?

Well, one way to size up a fighter is to put on the gloves with him and see what he's got. You know the old saying, though —"fools rush in where angels fear to tread." Well, I'm no fool. Besides, what good would it do for me to find out what Tommy Farr has if I didn't regain consciousness until after the fight?

Now another way to check up on a fighter is to walk up to him and give him the old grip with the right hand. Then see if you can make him wince. If you can't, try to pull your hand away as fast as you can, because he may have had the same idea about you. If he has, it may be too bad.

This is what I did. I went to Tommy Farr's dressing room and said "shake." He responded with alacrity. I put out my hand, he put out his, and I hoped for the best. I looked him right in the eye, and just then my knee came up pretty quickly and I found myself battling to get my hand away. It was quite a tussle, and the better man won. He finally let go.

Mr. Norman Is Convinced

After this, I didn't think it was necessary to get into the ring with him. I was convinced.

"There's nothing like clean living to make a man feel tip-top," I said, when I had recovered. "I myself go to the Y.M.C.A. gym regularly, every Tuesday night. Sometimes I skip a night, but that doesn't hurt. Want to feel my muscle?"

Having just gotten out of his grasp, I was a little foolhardy to have said that, because Mr. Farr's eyes lit up strangely. He reached over and grasped my wrist with his right hand, while his left encircled my muscle with a clutch of iron. I not only could not move, but I found it impossible to bulge my muscle.

To make matters worse, it occurred to me that in this position it would be a simple matter for Farr to snap my arm right off, if he had a mind to. If I had studied jiu-jitsu, I think I could have flopped him right over on the seat of his pants. But I majored in English composition, so I got out of his grip as quickly as I could without seeming to be rude or ill-bred. I also resolved to attend the "Y" gym regularly.

Mr. Norman's Opinion

"Now the way to beat Joe Louis," I said, as soon as Tommy let go, "is to wade right in at the bell and let him have it. Is that what you will do?"

"Would you like me to show you how I'll do it?" Tommy asked.

"No," I said. "You'd better save yourself for Louis."

Now don't go and wager your pay-check on what I concluded about Mr. Farr, but here it is:—

He has a great grip. Boy! If he could hold Joe's hand for 15 rounds, I think he could shake him to pieces.

LEADING HITTER

Norman "Baldy" Eggert, above, first baseman for the Kaukauna Brewers is leading Northern State league hitters with a .405 average. Baldy started the season badly and for a time was considering quitting because he couldn't get his base knocks. When he suddenly came out of the slump he started clipping the ball at a terrific rate and now leads the loop. Last Sunday he got four hits to seven tries in two games. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Brewers Win Game From Toledo, 10-9

Cellar Teams Upset Leaders in American Association

Chicago—(AP)— The "Giant killer" menace apparently has struck the American association pennant battle.

In the stretch of every baseball title race low standing teams usually play havoc with the hopes of the front runners, and last night's association program was an example. Both Toledo and Minneapolis suffered reverses at the hands of lower-ranking clubs, while Columbus had to pull victory out of the fire from another lesser-light through a 9-inning homer.

The home run, smacked by John Rizzo, gave the Red Birds a 5 to 4 win over Kansas City and a game and one-half lead over Toledo, with Minneapolis two games out of first place. The Birds was behind 7-hit pitching by Morton Cooper.

Milwaukee's improving Brewers won a free-hitting battle from Toledo 10 to 9, with each club getting 14 hits. The victors scored five runs in the second but the Hens kept fighting and in the seventh tied up the score at 8-all. Two runs by the Brewers in the fifth provided enough margin to offset a Hen run in the last of that frame.

Indianapolis, a second division club, damaged Minneapolis' pennant chances with a 4 to 3 victory over the Millers.

St. Paul overpowered Louisville in the fourth night game 13 to 5.

Hartnek Will Battle Jensen in Kenosha Bout

Kenosha —(AP)— Paul Hartnek of Kenosha, Golden Gloves heavyweight amateur boxing champion of the middle west for the last two years as a member of the Omaha, Neb., team, will box George "Schnozzle" Jensen of Racine, in the feature bout of a Ke-Nash-A club outdoor program tonight.

Watch Wisconsin; Harry Has Things Up His Sleeve

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)— The smallest turnout of visiting scribes at an important heavyweight bout since Braddock beat Baer will see Louis and Farr. . . . Reports keep coming in: Watch Wisconsin in the Big 10 this year. . . Coach Harry Stuhldreher has things up his sleeve. . .

Our No. 1 pitcher in baseball is Carl Hubbell, with Dizzy Dean 2nd. . . . St. Paul's big open golf tourney has been such a success that the envy of her sister city, Minneapolis, has been aroused. . . Look for competition from across the river next season—which will be right down the pros' alley. . .

It's going to be a tough break for Purdue university (and all football, for all that) if Nobel Kizer isn't able to coach again. . . . As the date of the big fight nears, it looks more and more like a $250,000 gross for Louis and Farr. . . Among the ex-champs at the ringside will be Jack Dempsey, James J. Braddock, Jack Sharkey and Max Baer. . . . Bet you Braddock rates as many cheers as Dempsey when they are introduced from the ringside.

Only superstition of Tony Lazzeri, Yankee second sacker, is a clean home plate. . . He deliberately kicks dirt over it every time he's in the batter's box. . . Yes, the umps get sore. . . One of the slickest jobs of college press agenting in the country is being turned out by Ted Carpenter of Marquette. . . . Everyone is glad to see Ernie Lombardi the has the largest hands in baseball having such a swell year with the Cincinnati Reds.

Nobody is worrying much about Max Schmeling's latest plight. . . . He brought it on himself. . . . Before he met Braddock last June, Joe Louis wrote Max that if he won he would make his first title defense against Schmeling and split 60 per cent of the net gate with him. . . Nothing could be fairer than that. . . Well, Mike Jacobs said he bombarded Max with cablegrams and trans-Atlantic telephone calls but didn't get a rise out of him. . . No dice, in other words. . . Come back next June, Mr. Schmeling.

Wheat Quotations In Decline After Earlier Advances

Buying in Chicago Dealings are Credited to Eastern Sources

Chicago —(AP)— Wheat prices rose 1½ cents soon after the market opened today, bobbed up and down nervously for more than two hours and then dropped, losing all the gain.

Buying was credited to eastern sources and presumably was based to some extent on strength in the northwest marketing centers where movement of spring wheat is at a peak. One report from Minneapolis indicated demand for every car of grain received there was brisk. Hedging pressure increased before the close and talk of big Russian wheat production created uncertainty about importers' demand for the domestic surplus.

Wheat closed ¼ higher to ¼ lower compared with yesterday's finish, September 1.04¾-05, December 1.06¾-07, and corn was ¼ off to 1 cent up, September 97-97¼, December 63¾. Oats were unchanged to ¼ higher.

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York—(AP)— A dragging demand pulled stock market leaders into a mild rally today.

In another of the slowest days of the year, steels and specialties showed quiet strength.

After a dip at the opening, prices soon began to harden and gains of fractions to 2 or more points were soon widely distributed of fractions to 2 or more points were soon widely distributed.

The pep quickly went out of the move and extreme advances were pared or cancelled in a number of cases before the finish.

Apathy was pronounced in the fourth hour when only 46,000 shares changed hands. Transfers for the day were around 550,000 shares.

Among the better acting shares were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Kennecott, Inspiration Copper, Westinghouse, General Electric, Northern Pacific, Celanese, Borg Warner, Radio, Zenith Radio, Pure Oil, Socony Vacuum, Crown Zellerbach, National Biscuit and Cutler-Hammer.

LaFollette May Summon Solons For About Sept. 15

Plans to Consult Other Legislators Before Setting Date

Madison —(AP)— Governor LaFollette's special session program began taking shape today when the chief executive disclosed a majority of legislators with whom he has talked favor a call for the middle of September.

"Most of the legislators would prefer to meet about Sept. 15, but the date cannot be set until others have been consulted," Governor LaFollette said.

The governor told legislators they would have to raise $1,500,000, exclusive of relief aids, due to the fact that they appropriated that amount in excess of the budget for the biennium at the regular session.

Tax Bill Included

The executive office announced the administration would submit a tax bill, probably on incomes, to meet the deficit. Revival of the chain store tax measure sponsored by Asemblyman John W. Grobschmidt (P), Milwaukee, might be undertaken.

Several Progressives from farming areas informed the governor that there was no relief problem in their districts and they would rather not have a special session.

The governor replied, however, that the relief situation in the state varied in the rural areas and cities, running from 10 per 1,000 in some places to 200 per 1,000 in others, and that something must be done.

He indicated the administration will seek an appropriation of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 to take care of relief cases. A flexible program of distribution will be established whereby each community will have to prove its need of state funds.

The governor discussed the program today with Senator Conrad Shearer (R), Kenosha, and will continue conferences the rest of the week.

Lewis' Follower Tries to Put End To Factionalism is that as long as the employer hired the left wing element, we can do nothing else but include it in the union."

Mortimer said that in furtherance of the principle of "Democracy" his faction wanted the duties of the vice presidents and their authorities defined and given "some definite category."

"Under the present setup," he said, "the president tries to handle everything and it just can't be done."

He said his aim was for a "more efficient, more satisfactory and more Democratic" setup.

Mortimer said as far as he was concerned there were no personalities involved in the fight.

Both factions have drawn up separate slates of officers with Martin the choice of each for president. Martin, however, would oust Mortimer and Ed Hall as vice presidents. His slate substitutes Richard Frankensteen and R. J. Thomas for Mortimer and Hall, while retaining Walter Wells as third vice president.

The "unity" group in its move toward decentralization of authority proposes four vice presidents of equal rank, nominating Hall, Mortimer, Frankensteen and Thomas.

One "progressive" spokesmen linked Hall and Mortimer with a "tendency to tolerate wild actions such as unauthorized strikes." He said "progressive leaders felt such things presented the public and the employers with a "picture of irresponsibility."

areas withdrew to new positions north of the international settlement boundary.

The districts of Hongkew and Yangtzepoo, which 24 hours before had been in the center of machine-gun and shell fire, were as quiet as a grave.

Today on ruins and scores of burned buildings were left to be guarded by street corner Japanese sentry posts.

Where the Whangpoo meets the Yangtze the battle developed into the most terrible fighting of the war when the Japanese army units began pouring ashore from the transports anchored off the Woosung area.

Chinese Open Fire

Flanked by their warships, the Japanese transports crept up to the Woosung wharves in the pitch darkness just before dawn. The Chinese positions were ominously silent until the first launch was lowered.

Then, as though at a signal, the still blackness became a living inferno of flame and noise.

The small improvised armored launch bore 70 picked and self-named "Shirodasukitai," literally the "white band of death." The only color they wore was a white sash

Complete Program Plans for Dinner In Honor of Corps

Kaukauna to Fete Sons of American Legion Unit At Civic Banquet

Kaukauna — Short talks by representatives of various organizations associated with this city's Sons of the American Legion Drum and Bugle corps and music by the Flanagan sisters' string trio will be on the program for the banquet given in honor of Kaukauna's state champion drum and bugle corps tomorrow night, it was announced by the civic committee in charge of the event today.

The program will supplement the main event of the evening, the talk by Robert Monk, Wausau attorney and past state commander of the American Legion. The affair is being held at the Knights of Columbus club rooms, W. Wisconsin avenue, as a civic welcome to the boys who won the state championship at the Milwaukee Legion convention two weeks ago.

A former member of the drum and bugle corps herself, Miss Margaret Ann Flanagan will play the harp as part of the sisters' trio, which will furnish the music on the program. Miss Flanagan was drum major of the corps for four years, leading them to their third place award in the Menasha convention a year ago.

Sisters to Play

The other members of the sister musicians' trio are Miss Joan, violinist, and Miss Mary Alice, cellist. This is probably the last appearance of the group this fall, as it will be temporarily broken up by Margaret Ann's leaving for college at Mount Mary, Milwaukee, next month.

Joseph Promer, chaplain of the Kaukauna Post No. 41 will give the invocation at the banquet. Dale Andrews, chairman of the citizens' committee arranging the affair, will introduce the toastmaster, Joseph C. McCarty. Mayor Lewis F. Nelson will give the official welcome of the city to the champions. Arthur Kromer, commander of Legion Post No. 41 will speak for the fathers of the drum corps members. Harry Treptow, Sr., drillmaster to the champions, will represent them in a short talk, and Orville Thompson, Appleton, who helped instruct the boys in music, also will be present. There will be community singing.

The affair will start promptly at 6:30, the committee said today. Members of the Legion Auxiliary will serve the meal.

Mongin, Hopfensperger In Finals of Golf Meet

Kaukauna—Winning their semi-final matches last weekend, Arthur Mongin, Jr., and Sylvester Hopfensperger advanced to the finals of the President's Cup golf tournament being played at the Kaukauna Golf course, and will clash for the title next Sunday.

Second round play in the City Handicap tournament was finished Sunday also, and play in that meet went to the semi-finals, the finals being scheduled for the Labor Day weekend.

Mongin got to the finals by his defeat of Gene Ditter, medalist of the tournament, 2 up. He had defeated John Grogan and Herman Baier in his march to the top. Hopfensperger trimmed Lawrence Gerend 4-3 in his match Sunday, a match that proved easy for him, but was still the closest he has had in the tournament. Hopfensperger previously swamped Leroy Seifert 7-6 and then got a victory over William Harwood by default.

Reach Semi-Finals

Second round matches in the City Handicap tournament sent four winners to battle in the semi-finals, scheduled to be played this week. Gene Ditter will meet the winner of the Ben Prugh-Harry McAndrews match, which has been postponed while McAndrews is on his vacation, in the top bracket of the tourney. Sylvester Hopfensperger will meet Johnny Andrejeski in what will probably be the best match of the tournament, as it brings together the city's two outstanding young golf players.

Ditter defeated Arthur Look in his second round match 3-2. In the second bracket Hopfensperger defeated John Grogan, 5-4, while Andrejeski got to the semis by his win over William Gillen some time ago, 5-4

Two consolation matches in the President's Cup tournament were played so far, Ben Prugh defeating E. A. Kalupa 2-1 and Arthur Look winning form Carl Hansen 2-1. Consolation matches still to be played are those between John Grogan and Dr. George Boyd, and between LeRoy Seifert and William Harwood.

The President's Cup meet is for club members only, while the City Handicap tournament is being held for any Kaukauna golf players, whether members of the club or not.

Conservation Club Releases Pheasants But Keeps It Secret

Kaukauna — The 8-weeks-old pheasants which the Kaukauna Conservation club raised from day-old chicks sent them by the state conservation department, were released today under a veil of secrecy by club members.

Fearful lest too many spectators gather to watch the rather difficult task of releasing the 300 pheasants the right way, Deputy Anton Rieth and several club members began this morning, unannounced, taking the birds to game preserves in this vicinity. Pheasants which have been kept in fences must be released so that they leave their coops easily, in groups, without being frightened and scattered.

In eight weeks the pheasants, which arrived here one-day old and looking much like domestic chicks, have grown to nearly mature birds, the males already showing some of the gay plumage they wear when they reach their full color. The young pheasants were fed by the conservation club, with special food mixtures formulated for them by the state department.

Union President To be Speaker at Labor Day Picnic

John P. Burke to Talk at Close of 2-Day Program at Kaukauna

Kaukauna—John P. Burke, Fort Edwards, N. Y., president and secretary of the Pulp Makers' International union will be the main speaker at the Labor Day picnic, homecoming and city anniversary celebration Sept. 5 and 6 at LaFollette park by Locals 147 and 20, Pulp and Papermakers' unions, it was announced today by Eugene Wiedenbeck, general chairman of the picnic.

Burke spoke in Kaukauna two years ago this fall, when he addressed union men at a mass meeting in the Civic auditorium. With him at the time was Matt Burns, Albany, N. Y., head of the papermakers' international.

The talk by Burke will be given at 7:30 Monday night as the 2-day celebration draws to a close. A loud speaker system will be installed at the park to amplify the speaker's voice and bring it to all parts of the crowd. The speaker will address a Menasha picnic crowd Monday afternoon.

Worked In Appleton

Burke at one time worked in an Appleton paper mill, about 30 years ago. He is head of all pulpmakers' unions in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland.

In making the announcement yesterday, Wiedenbeck also warned business men to question the authority of anyone soliciting funds, supposedly for the Labor Day picnic. Anyone doing business for the Kaukauna picnic should be made to show a union card from Locals 20 or 147, Wiedenbeck said, for they are the only ones working on this celebration, and they are not soliciting any funds from any business men.

Union representatives from Michigan, Minnesota and distant parts of Wisconsin will attend the Kaukauna celebration according to communications received yesterday.
